MONTREAL SPLITS OVER RECIPROCITY

Twenty Millions of American Money Invested in Factories Friendly to Tariff.

BIG MARKET AT STAKE.

People Favor a Trade Arrangement with United States; Factory Men Are Opposed to It.

[BY JOHN H. RAFTERY.]

Montreal, Que., Aug. 26.—[Special Correspondence.]—From Montreal, the busiest, the most populous, and in every way the most influential city in the dominion of Canada, it is well to write a letter bearing closely upon the fact that the tariff wall between the United States and Canada is the corner stone of the recent growth, expansion, and prosperity of manufacturing industries in this part of the country.

In seven years more than $20,000,000 of American money has been invested at Montreal in factories. An equal sum of Canadian money has been put into enterprises which originated in the United States, but which have been brought hither and installed for the original and final purpose of capturing the Canadian market by evading the tariff.

Keen for Foreign Capital.

The province of Quebec, Montreal especially, is keen for the induction of foreign capital. Nothing could have better nourished this desire than the Canadian port duty on articles of foreign manufacture and the prohibitive American impost on stuffs made in Canada. Within seven years a total of nearly $50,000,000 has been invested in manufacturing businesses here to the end that this province and its tributary territory is no longer dependent upon or subservient to American factories in the lines included.

In Montreal, if anywhere in Canada, you will find that the dominion manufacturer is pleased with the tariff obstruction that the public dislikes. Only half the factories of this great city of half a million population are of American origin, energized chiefly by American money and devoted to nothing but the "main chance."

The Canadian capitalists associated with these American born industries are innocent of all sentiment. American models, American methods, American policies are used here to the end that Montreal threatens to become the fountain head and focal point of Canadian manufacturing industries.

Not Friendly to Reciprocity.

The manufacturer here is no advocate of reciprocity. American as many of the Montreal manufacturers are, they are making no outcry for reciprocity or free trade. The Canadian branch of the American factory here has an advantage in tariff conditions as they exist that works most successfully.

England, in spite of the preferential discount, is at a disadvantage as compared with the local factor. For the British factory exporting to Canada is not exempt, while the American-Canadian rival, operating here so as to evade the tariff, has the "call" both in resident labor and in contiguity to the vast market at stake.

Bear in mind that Montreal is the woolen and cotton manufacturing center of the dominion. It buys all of its raw material from the United States, for raw material is free of impost in these lines, and the states furnish the natural market. Labor, skilled and unskilled, is cheaper here than in the United States, although not cheaper than that of Britain. But the Canadian tariff and the long water haul from Liverpool, Glasgow, and London leave the advantages wholly with the local makers of garments, contrivances, and woven material.

Are Doing Well Enough.

Now, you go to the Montreal manufacturer and ask him what sort of international arrangement he wants, and he will tell you that he is doing well enough, thank you. e chances are nine of ten that you will find an American superintendent, an American manager, or an American proprietor in the factories of Montreal. If you go through the factory itself you will find a preponderance of skilled laborers from the United States. Here now are money, brains, labor—all inducted from Uncle Sam's domain to develop and realize upon the resources of Canada—and induced to come here by what? The desire, and, perhaps, the necessity to evade the tariff wall which separates the two countries.

Reconciled to the Tariff.

It is fit here and now to say judiciously that the advent of American money, American ingenuity, and American industry is doing more than anything else to reconcile Canada, and especially Quebec province, to the restrictive conditions of the tariffs of the two countries.

The American manufacturer who comes here, forced to do so by apparently insurmountable requisites of our international trade relations, becomes at once a friend of those circumstances which induced him to establish a "Canadian branch."

The big factories started here by American capital have had, so far as the city and provinces are concerned, a beneficial effect. They give work to the natives; they help to stop emigration to the states; they circulate money; they enhance all activities, whether civic or provincial. In a word, Montreal, and Quebec, is pleased with the incursion of American money, American industry, American methods of manufacture and trade. Being pleased and looking for the initial cause of the happy conditions, they say: "It is the tariff."

Not All Friendly to Embargo.

Here, then, is a phase of the situation which, to an American, does not present itself in any of the maritime provinces:

Visiting today say fifty of the manufacturers and jobbers of Montreal, I find the former uniformly favorable to the existing tariff embargoes. What could be more logical, or, for that matter, more selfish? But with the jobber, the wholesaler, it is different. He would like to have an open market. He wants reciprocity, and he is in the majority, of course. He would wish to buy in New York, in Boston, in Chicago, in open competition for low prices and equal values if there were no intervening tariff.

The consumer, more numerous still, also wants his wares at the lowest price consistent with staple values. So that the retail dealer, the jobber, and the consumer of Montreal and Quebec are, for selfish but sequential reasons, favorable to reciprocity with the states.

But the manufacturing element in politics, in influence, in weight of invested interests

D. B. HILL TO QUIT POLITICAL ARENA

New York Democratic Leader Celebrates His Sixty-first Birthday by Abdicating His Power.

GENERATION IN HARNESS.

Says in Statement That He Has Done Much Work and Will Rest After the Presidential Election.

POLITICAL CAREER OF DAVID B. HILL.

1871-'72—Member of the New York assembly.
1880-'81—Member of the board of aldermen of the city of Elmira.
1882-'83—Mayor of the City of Elmira.
1883-'85—Lieutenant governor of State of New York.
1885-'91—Governor of State of New York.
1891-'97—United States senator from the State of New York.
1904—Candidate for governor of the State of New York against Levi P. Morton; suffered his first defeat at the polls.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—No such interesting announcement has been made in New York politics in years as that which came from Albany tonight, to the effect that David B. Hill has issued a statement on the eve of his sixty-first birthday, saying that on Jan. 1, 1905, he would retire from politics; that he never would run for an elective office again; that if the democracy is successful in the state and nation he will accept no appointment at the hands of the president or governor, and that he will relinquish the leadership of his party in this state.

This means that one of the most remarkable leaders of his time is to leave the stage.

Will Benefit Parker.

Mr. Hill's enemies naturally will say he does not mean it, but there was little difference of opinion among democrats and republicans tonight. They believe the statement will do Parker a great deal of good. Mr. Hill wanted to retire a year ago. He has held himself ready since then to make any sacrifice that would help Parker.

One of the chief arguments the republican managers have made has been that Mr. Parker was under the influence of Mr. Hill, and that he would be compelled to discharge obligations to him.

Dampens Republican Powder.

Republican newspaper organs have been filled with accounts of all the bad things and none of the good ones the Hill machine did during the nine years it was in undisputed power at Albany, and this action dampens much of Chairman Cortelyou's powder.

The leadership of the democratic party in this state outside of New York City has been maintained by Mr. Hill only by the most bitter contests. For half a dozen years he was assailed by Cleveland democrats, and the enmity between him and Tammany hall has been of long standing. Several times when the state ticket was defeated it was generally believed Hill was politically dead, and Richard Croker a half dozen years ago proclaimed himself state leader in Hill's stead.

His Break with Sheehan.

But when the smoke of conflict had blown away Hill was found again controlling the situation. His most bitter contest was immediately following the Maynard scandal, when he was accused of having stolen the state senate.

It is a peculiar bit of political history, in view of recent events, that after the overthrow of William F. Sheehan's power in Erie county, in 1891, Mr. Hill was accused of the basest treachery to his former friend and supporter, and it was not until recently that the breach between them was bridged, if indeed it is bridged today.

Courts Newspaper Favor.

Previous to the St. Louis convention Mr. Hill was reticent with any information he had and acted the sphynx; since the convention and the turn affairs have taken Senator Hill has been solicitous for the confidence of the newspaper men and the public. The time was when any newspaper man would have traveled far to obtain and gloated long over an interview with Mr. Hill. But this is changed. It is even said that some of his typewritten statements have found their way to Sunday editorial waste baskets.

This is an exaggeration probably, but as a matter of fact, the sage of Wolfert's Roost is no longer shadowed by reporters.

A Thorn in His Side.

The favorable action of the Bar associations, Tammany hall, and democratic organizations in the interior counties for Justice D. Cady Herrick for chief judge of the Court of Appeals, to succeed Judge Parker, was a thorn in Senator Hill's side, for he has been fighting Justice Herrick since he came to Albany to live in 1891.

Today he entertained Congressman Francis Burton Harrison at dinner in Albany. Mr. Harrison is going through the state planning to have a convention of democratic campaign clubs. After the dinner Senator Hill gave out a typewritten sheet of paper which hid in the fact that tomorrow is his sixty-first birthday the statement that he intended to retire from politics.

Gives Reasons for Retiring.

This was sent to the press associations and the Albany newspapers, and it closed the incident for Mr. Hill, who would not submit to an interview, saying that everything was covered in the statement.

The statement is brief, but to the point. Ex-Senator Hill says that he had intended to take this action a year ago today, but was persuaded not to do so until after the presidential election.

He refers to the fact that he has been engaged actively in politics since his youth. He has been alderman, member of the assembly, mayor, lieutenant governor, govenor, and United States senator, and says he feels that he has been honored by the party sufficiently.

Moreover, Mr. Hill declares he has rendered political service during a period sufficient to entitle him to be relieved from further active political effort. He desires to devote more time to his personal affairs and professional duties than he has in the past.

His Last Campaign Work.

Mr. Hill will continue his work in the present campaign, and to his friends said that he would always maintain his interest in democratic success. He will speak for the democracy at the county fair to be held at Whitney's Point in this state on Wednesday of this week, to be followed by Senator Depew the next day for the republicans.

THE THEATRICAL SEASON IS NOW OPENING.

LOVE TURNS TO HATE

Lorenz Lentsch Wounds Stepdaughter and Her Fiance.

THEN ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Shooting Is Result of Infatuation for the Young Woman.

Actuated, it is believed, by jealousy and his infatuation for his stepdaughter, Augusta Guth, Lorenz Lentsch, 21 Aubert avenue, last evening shot the girl and her fiancé, Edward Moeller, 1036 Nelson street, and then killed himself. The recovery of the young woman is doubtful.

Lentsch was a toolmaker and resided with his wife and two stepdaughters. During the last five years, it is said, he has been openly infatuated with Augusta, who is 20 years old. Antonia Lentsch, widow of the suicide, says that on several occasions her husband has told her she should die and allow him to marry the younger woman.

Jealousy Arouses Stepfather.

Five months ago Moeller, a teamster, 21 years old, began paying the young woman attentions. This aggravated the stepfather so that the members of the family declared he threatened her life on several occasions.

The girl left a week ago because of the stepfather's cruelty and took refuge with a married sister—Mrs. Henry Feiler, 558 Wieland street. Lentsch urged her to return, declaring that she might meet Moeller as often as she chose.

Sits on Sofa with Suitor.

Yesterday afternoon the girl returned, and in the evening her suitor called. Lentsch remained in his room, a bedroom opening into the parlor, and the girl and the young man sat together on the sofa. The mother and other sister, and Miss Stella Schuist, a friend of the wounded young woman, were in the dining room in the basement of the cottage.

At 6 o'clock Lentsch left his room and his stepdaughter went to the piano, where she sat and played. After a few moments she rose and said that she was ready to go out with the young man, and then the stepfather started a quarrel. When he urged her to remain, the girl signified her willingness to do so, and started again to play the piano.

Without Warning Begins Firing.

As soon as Miss Guth had turned her back Lentsch fired at Moeller, striking him in the left thigh, and following the shot with another which wounded his stepdaughter in the back, piercing her left lung.

With a scream the girl staggered to the front porch, followed by the young man. She fell at the foot of the stairs. Notwithstanding the wound in his thigh, her fiancé picked her up and ran with her 300 yards to the residence of August Aubert, 2524 North Western avenue, the owner of the cottage where the shooting took place. Here he fell fainting with his burden.

Turns Revolver Upon Himself.

After the young couple had left the cottage the girl's sister, Irma Guth, and her friend, Stella Schuist, ran into the front room in time to see the stepfather turn the revolver upon himself and fire. The bullet pierced his chest, killing him instantly.

Moeller and the girl were taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where her condition was said to be critical. Moeller's wound was said to be not severe.

Wishes Wife Out of the Way.

In telling the story of the tragedy Mrs. Lentsch said:

"Lorenz Lentsch married me for my money, which he since has spent. Many times he has said to me, 'You are too old, too fat, and too ugly. I want Augusta. When you are dead I will marry her.' I have been afraid he would kill me. Lately he has been threatening her with death if she would not give up Moeller. I helped them to meet away from the house several times, but when she left he said if she only would come back she could have any sweetheart she wanted."

GIRL ROAD AGENT TRIES TO HOLD UP A STAGE COACH.

It Was Only a Lark, but It Came Near Costing a Young Woman from New York Her Life.

Pocatello, Idaho, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Miss Alice Pulsipher, a daughter of a well known New Yorker, undertook in response to a dare to hold up the Monida-Yellowstone stage for a lark a few days ago, and narrowly escaped being shot.

Dressing herself in men's clothes, with boots, sombrero, and leather leggins, and mounting a horse, she added two big revolvers to her equipment. Then she stationed herself at a turn of the road where she was concealed by timber and thick undergrowth. Just before dusk the stage, filled with eastern tourists, came along. Miss Pulsipher rode her horse into the middle of the road and, pointing both pistols at the driver, commanded him to halt.

Bill Ripley, the driver, is a grizzled old frontiersman, famous as an Indian fighter in the early days. Without a word he drew his own revolver, leveled it at the figure in front, and was in the act of firing when Miss Pulsipher, with a wild shriek, dropped both her weapons and begged him not to fire.

Ripley, in solemn tones, warned the young woman of the danger she ran by playing jokes with guns in the western mountains.

SINGS HYMN: NAILS BURGLAR IN

Mrs. James Martin of Rochester, Ind., Fastens Cellar Door, but Intruder Escapes Through Window.

Rochester, Ind., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—When Mrs. James Martin returned from church last night she heard a noise in the kitchen and saw the cellar door raise and a burglar stick his head out.

She jumped on the door and began singing the hymn: "No, Never Alone, Alone, No, Never Alone," as she sang she reached for a hatchet and nails, which were on a shelf, and nailed the door down and then went for help.

The burglar jumped through a cellar window just as she got out of the house and escaped.

SWIMS TO RESCUE WOMAN'S HAT

Person Supposed to Be Drowning Under Headgear Is on Shore Waiting to Thank Swimmer.

A woman's hat bobbing up and down in the lake off Lincoln park was seen yesterday by Al Tittel, telephone operator at the park station.

"Keep your head up. I'm coming," he shouted to the woman he supposed to be under the hat. Then he plunged in.

There proved to be no woman connected with the hat, but when Tittel swam ashore with the headgear a young person took it from him and thanked him sweetly.

SPEECHES ON "DEAD SQUARE."

Live Issues Discussed by Candidates in a Bond County Graveyard.

Greenville, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—In the cemetery at McKendree Chapel church in the south part of the county the local campaign opened yesterday. The plan was formulated to draw a crowd, and money was raised by the sale of refreshments to defray the expenses of putting the cemetery in good condition. Two republican and three democratic candidates delivered fifteen minute addresses. The meeting opened with prayer.

VALUES HIS LIFE AT FIVE CENTS.

Philadelphia Man, Victim of Runaway, Bestows Nickel on Man Who Stops Horse.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—At the risk of his life Alfred Birbeck, 428 Vine street, today stopped a runaway horse, and his reward was a 5 cent piece. The owner of the horse was thrown from the carriage and the animal pursued its course in constant danger of being run down by the cars until Birbeck stopped it. The owner drew out a wallet and removing some bills drew forth a nickel and gave it to Birbeck.

AUTO RACE KILLS TWO

Barney Oldfield's Machine In Fatal Dash at World's Fair.

CRASHES INTO THE FENCE.

Chauffeur, Who Is Injured, Says It Is His Last Contest.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Barney Oldfield, the racing chauffeur of Cleveland, O., lost control of his automobile in the fifth event of the World's Fair speed contest today. The big machine crashed through the outer fence of the course, killing John Scott, a watchman, and injuring Nathan Montgomery, a negro so that he died a few hours later. Oldfield was injured and the auto demolished.

At the clubhouse, after the accident, Oldfield declared that the race was his last. He said he never would drive in competition again on an inclosed track, declaring the sport too hazardous. He said he might take part in exhibitions, but not in contests.

Accident in Fifth Race.

The accident occurred at the start of the fifth event, a ten mile race for racing machines. At the start A. C. Webb of Toledo, Webb Jay, G. P. Dorris, and Barney Oldfield went to the paddock. The start was bad, Oldfield and Webb being the only drivers to get their machines in motion. They sped under the wire and away without heeding the gong. When the three-quarters pole was reached the machines were going at the rate of a mile a minute.

Webb led by twenty yards. He held the middle of the track, and as he mounted a bank at the turn his machine threw a cloud of dust in the air that caused both machines to be lost to the sight of the 25,000 spectators in the grand stand.

Dashes Into the Fence.

Oldfield tried to pass Webb at the three-eighths pole. He was getting the dust and was completely blinded. He turned his machine to the rail and allowed it to run directly into the fence.

About thirty feet of the railing was torn out. Scott and Montgomery, the only two spectators at that spot, were directly in the path of the huge 24 horse power machine and were ground down in a twinkling. Oldfield in the automobile hardly realized what had happened until the machine struck a tree. He was thrown out violently and his head and face were scratched, but he was not seriously injured. The machine was wrecked.

Oldfield was taken to the clubhouse. Scott's body was picked up, and Montgomery, the negro, was atended by a physician until the city ambulance took him to the hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries.

This is the second serious accident that Oldfield has figured in. While racing at Grosse Pointe, Detroit, several days ago the steering gear of his famous car, "999," became deranged and he ran into a man, killing him. Oldfield had three ribs broken then.

IGORROTES VS. CHORUS GIRL.

Unclad Brown Brothers Attend a Theater and the Audience Discusses the Question of Lack of Raiment.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Twenty 90 per cent naked Igorrotes attended a local theater today and witnessed a performance in which there was a large and modern chorus. The audience after a critical comparison of the "white man's burden" and the "young man's burden" decided it was a case of "horse and horse."

AUTO NEARLY DIVES IN RIVER.

Another Machine Is Stopped When Within Short Distance of Opening at Rush Street.

An automobile driven at high speed nearly plunged through the open Rush street bridge at 1:45 o'clock this morning. The driver stopped the machine only a foot from the brink. He refused to give his name.

RUSSIANS ROUTED; MAY BE CUT OFF

Kuroki Reported to Have Seized Railroad South of Mukden and Destroyed the Bridges.

GREAT BATTLE AT LIAOYANG.

Russians Driven Into the City and the Japanese Are Attacking from Three Sides.

CLOSING IN ON PORT ARTHUR.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Aug. 28, 8 p. m.—The general staff maintained silence throughout today concerning the fighting in the vicinity of Liaoyang. It is reported that Gen. Kuroki has seized and cut the railroad south of Mukden, thus separating the Russian forces and cutting Liaoyang off from a direct line of retreat, but confirmation of this report cannot be obtained.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—According to a dispatch of today's date to the Central News from Liaoyang an artillery battle has been in progress since 8 o'clock this morning near Liaoyang. The Russian main position, the dispatch says, it what was formerly the outpost line of the Liaoyang garrison.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 29, 3 a. m.—The Chronicle's correspondent with Gen. Kuroki, cabling under date of Aug. 24, via Fusan, Aug. 25, says:

"The fall of Port Arthur is imminent. The Japanese are now within the main defenses and their guns command the town. Desperate fighting occurs night and day, and the losses on both sides are enormous.

"The Russians are making furious counter attacks, but the Japanese are clinging to the positions they have won at so great a cost."

BULLETIN.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 26, 10 a. m.—[Delayed.]—The rapid advance of the Japanese has forced their fighting line to within about ten miles of Liaoyang, east and south, and guns are now heard north and east on the Taitse river.

IS IT KOUROPATKIN'S WATERLOO?

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 29, 3 a. m.—Kouropatkin, defeated and driven back into Liaoyang, is making a last desperate stand against the overwhelming force of Kuroki and Oku.

Saturday, after furious bayonet to bayonet fighting, the Russians were driven back from Anping on the southeast and Anshanshan on the southwest.

Losses More than 1,500.

Kouropatkin, reporting his defeat to the czar, says he does not know what his losses are. On his east front alone in Saturday's battle, he says, more than 1,500 of his men were killed or wounded.

Dispatches received at Tokio from the front declare that Kuroki has seized the railroad between Liaoyang and Mukden and destroyed a bridge. This is not officially confirmed.

Is Retreat Cut Off?

With the Japanese astride the railroad north of Liaoyang, Kouropatkin's retreat to Mukden is cut off. He cannot move his men and supplies by rail. Great armies are pressing in on him from the northeast, the east, and the south. Between his army and seeming annihilation are the rain soaked, torrent swollen, muddy plains west of Liaoyang. And out on these plains is waiting, according to Russian reports, another Japanese army of 40,000 men.

Russians in the Dark.

According to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Koupangtze, dated Aug. 27, the Russian staff officers confess themselves completely in the dark as to the meaning of the Japanese movements, and that consequently they have no definite plan.

Ten days ago, feeling that Liaoyang would be surrounded, Gen. Kouropatkin began to draw his troops northward. Then, on the Japanese retiring, he brought them back again, but continued his preparations for effecting a retreat.

Russians at Japanese Mercy.

There is no doubt, says the correspondent, that the Russian army is now completely at the mercy of the Japanese whenever they choose to attack.

The Liaoyang correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in a dispatch dated Aug. 28 says that a great quantity of transport has been sent north, leaving Liaoyang ready for all eventualities. The rumor that the Japanese lost guns at Siaulins, the correspondent says, turns out to be incorrect.

Situation at Port Arthur.

Conditions at Port Arthur are not so desperate as Saturday's rumors seemed to indicate. Chefoo reports this morning indicate that the main besieging force is at Chaochangkao, one mile from the east basin, on the Dalny road. On the west the Japanese are close to Payuishan, an unfortified height overlooking the town, but they are unable to seize it owing to the fire from the Russian warships in the harbor.

Japs Inside Chain of Forts.

Simplified, these reports show that the besiegers have penetrated the line of forts and fortifications which extends in a great ellipsis around Port Arthur. With their main force inside this chain of forts the Japanese are preparing to capture them from the inside instead of from the outside.

Feat of Spectacular Daring.

The spectacular daring of such an attempt probably never presented itself to the engineer who fortified Port Arthur. The Russian forts were built and armed to resist attack from the outside. No one dreamed that the Japanese would attack from the inside.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF DEFEAT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—The general staff has received the following telegram from Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff, dated Aug. 27:

"Our advance guards and advanced troops on the southern front yesterday retired slowly towards the fortified position at Anshanshan.

"Rifle fire was general along the whole front.

"The Japanese artillery cannonaded our positions at different points.

"Our guns poured a heavy fire into the columns of the Japanese as they advanced and into their works and intrenchments and eventually compelled them to move their vast camp from Fumaina to the village of Baissiaza.

"At 6 o'clock in the evening there was a lull in the firing.

"The hottest fighting occurred on our left flank on the south front, where our losses amounted to 200.

"During the night our advance guards retired to the principal position.

"Five divisions of the enemy took the offensive against our south front.

"Our troops repelled towards the southeast all attacks of the Japanese directed against their front, while our troops on the right flank taking the offensive toward evening drove the Japanese back on Tounsinpu.

"Our losses on the southeast front were about 400.

"Our detachment on the east yesterday had a desperate fight against considerable forces of the enemy.

"On the right flank our infantry, though unsupported by artillery, and though the Japanese were at all points superior numerically, firmly and courageously repulsed the attacks begun during the night by the enemy on the advanced positions of Tsegow and Anping. This affair culminated in sharp bayonet fighting and some of our regimental officers received sword, bayonet, and revolver wounds.

Japs Capture Anping.

"After desperate fighting on the advanced positions of Tsegow and Anping our troops retired on the main position, supported by artillery.

"The Tamboff regiment, on the left flank at Tsegow, defended an advanced position from 1 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, repelling all the enemy's attacks at the point of the bayonet.

"There were four counter attacks. The commander of the regiment, Col. Klembousky, was wounded.

Russians Lose Six Guns.

"A turning movement by the enemy against the left flank of the Tsegow position and the enfilading fire of their batteries on Khaoulou heights forced the Tamboff regiment to retire, and the retreat was effected in good order. Six guns were abandoned, but they were broken and rendered useless.

"The Japanese attacked like fanatics and their losses must have been great.

"A wounded Japanese officer, who was taken prisoner, escaped observation after his wound had been dressed and killed himself by dashing his head against the stones.

Our troops captured a considerable number of rifles, caps, and other articles of equipment from the Japanese.

Russian Losses Exceed 1,500.

"Our losses on this front have not been definitely ascertained, but they exceed 1,500 killed and wounded.

"Notwithstanding the long and desperate fighting and the consequent fatigue, the spirit of our troops was as alert as ever, and in the darkness of night, with rain falling heavily and transforming the ground into liquid mud, they executed the necessary movements, headed by their bands, in perfect order.

"On Aug. 27 the enemy had not assumed any definite offensive movement at any point along the whole front and our troops gradually moved to new positions.

"At about 2 o'clock in the afternoon it was discovered that the Japanese were moving on Taempine by way of Youdioukau."

RUSSIANS FALLING BACK.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 29, 8:45 a. m.—All the news from Liaoyang, official or otherwise, shows that Gen. Kouropatkin is gradually drawing in his advanced positions to the inner ring of his defenses.

After three days of heavy fighting, the latter part of which was impeded by rain, the Russians were compelled to disable six guns, which it was impossible to take from the high positions over the muddy roads, but during the fighting on the southern front they captured some Japanese guns. It is reported also that they destroyed some Japanese mountain batteries.

Gen. Kouropatkin has not yet disclosed whether he intends to make a decisive fight at Liaoyang.

Russians May Be Retreating.

General disappointment is expressed by the newspaper correspondents at the withdrawals now in progress. The statement that the reserves were not called up to hold some of the positions which were abandoned seems to show that there is a strong force at Liaoyang which is not yet being utilized. At the same time from private messages received from Liaoyang it might be inferred that a heavy movement northward has been progressing for some days.

Gen. Kouropatkin seems to be well satisfied with the situation. One dispatch described him as being in high spirits and laughing and joking at a meeting of the St. George society at Liaoyang.

The Russian losses to date are stated to be about 1,500. The Russian batteries inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese.

Think Railroad Is Safe.

Nothing has been heard here regarding the reported cutting of the railway south of Mukden, but the fact that an unusual mass of telegrams are arriving, some of which were filed late Sunday night at Liaoyang, seems to discredit the report. Had the Japanese destroyed the railway they doubtless would also have cut the wires.

Several batteries which were quickly collected by Grand Duke Sorge Michaelovitch were dispatched to the far east today.

JAPS ATTACKING LIAOYANG.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

LIAOYANG, Aug. 28.—The Russians are falling back slowly but steadily from their positions on the south and east. The Japanese are pushing on against the three sides of the city, near which continued fighting is going on.

The resistance offered to the Japanese advance will be desperate, as the Russians are contesting every inch of the ground with all their characteristic stubbornness.

The Japanese are reported to be adopting a new method of night attack. They concentrate a searchlight on the point attacked, thus preventing the garrison from seeing. They are ominously quiet. During the recent period of tranquillity the Russian losses from all sources have been replaced and the Japanese problem has been rendered more difficult.

TWO DAYS' BATTLE DESCRIBED.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 28.—A Russian correspondent, in describing the two days' fight of Aug. 25 and 26, says:

"The fight developed not only the immense strength of the Japanese artillery but involved several hand to hand fights and bayonet charges.

"The first movement was made by Gen. Nodzu from Erdah on the morning of Aug. 25 with about a division and a half. The Japanese concentrated the fire of nearly sixty guns on the Llandiansian position. Among these guns were mountain batteries and heavier cannon, the latter including four howitzers.

"The Cossacks checked the first attempt of the Japanese infantry to advance in the direction of Tounsinpu.

Heavy Attack on Flank.

"Gen. Kuroki then joined in the attack and led a general assault, pressing heavily on the center of the left flank, while at the same time attempting to turn the extreme left.

"The advance began at 10 p. m., on Aug. 25, the Japanese following their usual custom of trying to force in the night a position which had proved impregnable during the day. The rifle fire gradually increased until midnight, when the principal attack was made on our left.

Japs in Solid Masses.

"The Japanese came up in solid masses, throwing themselves against our position with wild shouts of 'Banzai.' Every attack was rolled back with tremendous loss.

"At one place the Japanese line broke and fled in panic, leaving the dead in heaps. We followed with the bayonet up to the next line of trenches, and then there was a lull until 4 o'clock in the morning, when reinforcements joined the attackers.

"The Japanese again advanced slowly and stubbornly, covered by a hail of artillery fire. We remained in our position until 1 p. m., and then retired without even bringing up the reserves.

Russians Begin Retreat.

"We fell back from Anpilin Pass, Mayolin, Siaolindzy, Tsegow, and Chilipui to the next position, as had been arranged beforehand.

"Our losses were about 1,500. The Japanese losses are not known, but they were heavy. We were unable to remove six guns from their high positions, owing to the condition of the roads, but before the guns were left behind they were disabled.

"The Tamboff, Orloff, and Briansk regiments distinguished themselves at bayonet work.

"Col. Larapoff, with several companies of Cossacks, led a wild saber charge, before which the Japanese broke in confusion, but the Cossacks ventured too far in pursuit, and came under a terrific artillery fire, with the result that they suffered heavily in men and horses.

Sound of Guns Slackening.

"This evening the sound of guns, which has been heard all day long, is slackening. All the forces of the Red Cross are mobilizing in the expectation of heavy work.

"The Russian list of losses is not yet complete, but it is not believed it will be heavy except on the eastern front.

"The Russian artillery is winning unstinted praise in all quarters, not only on the accuracy of its fire, which destroyed a number of the opposing batteries, but on the fact that the gunners are learning to inflict without receiving damage.

"So far throughout the fighting our guns have been exceptionally well placed and masked. During the fighting of Aug. 25 the artillery inflicted tremendous losses on the Japanese, who, on the other hand, fired most wildly."

SURPRISE AT LIAOYANG.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 28, 7:10 p. m.—The Russian forces have been disappointed by another unexpected withdrawal. The whole eastern division and the troops on the Anshanshan position have been ordered to fall back to positions nearer Liaoyang just as the soldiers were expecting another advance.

The Japanese are not following the Russians.

The advance from the south is apparently being pushed home. Sounds of artillery from that direction are plainer than they were yesterday.

The Chinese at Liaoyang are bringing out women and children, which they usually do when expecting a Japanese advance.

The Russians had sustained a hot artillery fight all of Aug. 26 on the eastern front, but held all their positions.

Retreat Instead of Battle.

At 5 o'clock this evening the understanding was that the Russians would concentrate heavily in the morning for an attack of the Japanese, and the surprise was greater therefore at the order to retire.

The explanation is given that the Tenth corps, especially Gen. Herschelmann's division on the extreme left, was confronted by a greatly superior force of Japanese. Though the Russians fought bravely and held all their positions they had lost an immense number of officers.

Most probably the retirement from the Anshanshan position arose from the same reason, for the whole mountain division, as well as the eastern troops, retired apparently not from the pressure of the Japanese but for strategic reasons.

The rains had made a thick and binding mud, which almost paralyzed wagon transportation and made the movement of guns even more difficult.

Japs Do Not Pursue.

Though the Japanese witnessed the slow retirement of the eastern division they made no attempt to follow the Russians, being apparently exhausted by the duel of Aug. 24 and Aug. 25 and the desperate and unsuccessful all day attack of Aug. 26.

Today the sound of cannonading is heard plainer in Liaoyang. It is more to the south than to the southeast.

The Japanese seem to be advancing along the entire front, particularly moving with a large force up the valley of the Liao river.

Driven from Anshanshan.

The Russians retired from Anshanshan yesterday (Saturday) after a fight which commenced on the morning of Aug. 26 and continued in a desultory manner all day and night.

Arrangements for a battle had been completed by night time, when the order to retire was given on account of the situation to the east.

The order was received with disappointment by the troops. The retirement was made in an orderly manner.

The plain between Anshanshan and Haicheng was covered with Japanese troops, who burned the bridge and shelled the railway station after the Russian retirement.

The Russian losses amount to 300.

The Japanese are advancing with great rapidity.

DETAILS OF EARLIER BATTLE.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 25.—[Delayed.]—After 3 o'clock yesterday (Wednesday) the Japanese succeeded in commanding Kaofengshik from Paoshankan, where their advance first began on Aug. 23, and also from their position at Liangchikshan on the east, in such a way as to force the Russian center and right flank, compelling the evacuation of Anshanshan today. The Japanese south front, therefore, is several miles nearer Liaoyang.

At 3:30 o'clock yesterday Japanese shells from a concealed battery in the vicinity of Paoshankan began falling in the road west of Kaofengshik, leading to Liaoyang, thus threatening to sever communication to the west. The Russians still controlled the road to the north.

The Japanese fire ceased in the evening, but commenced again this (Thursday) morning upon the Kaofengshik position, but as the Russians did not reply the Japanese apparently suspended their operations to reconnoiter, while the Russians fell back to a more favorable position.

The gradual withdrawal of the Russians before the Japanese advance the Russians consider as increasing the security of their position, as it is freely acknowledged that the Japanese are able to beat them in detail in the mountains.

The Russians generally praise the ability and valor of the Japanese.

FIGHTING AT ANSHANSHAN.

ANSHANSHAN, Aug. 27, via Liaoyang, Aug. 28.—The Russians have checked the Japanese advance in this direction after a heavy and fruitless attack by the Japanese batteries on each side of the railway.

There was an action yesterday (Friday) from dawn until midday, when the Japanese halted. Later in the evening they attempted to come up under cover of the surrounding scrub, but the Russian shrapnel searched out and checked them.

The Chinese say that the Japanese are hiring a great number of coolies to carry their wounded, and that they expect the fight will continue for at least three days longer.

JAPS DESTROY RAILWAY BRIDGE.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—A dispatch to the Asahi from the front says that Gen. Kuroki has destroyed a railway bridge between Liaoyang and Mukden. It is stated that the armies of Gens. Kuroki and Oku respectively attacked Anping and Anshanshan on Friday.

Reports have reached the naval station at Sasebo that the Russian battleship Sevastopol was severely shattered by the recent mine explosion at Port Arthur. Evidences point to the fact that the battleship probably sank while being towed back into the harbor.

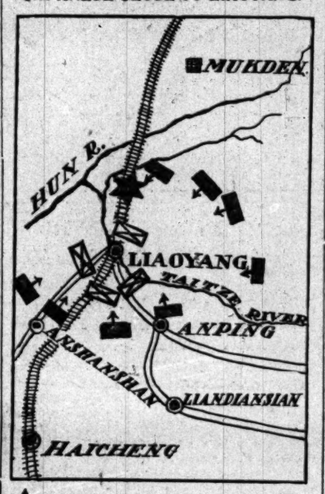

The fighting reported occurring east and southeast of Liaoyang is regarded here as preliminary to a larger contest in the immediate vicinity of Liaoyang. It is expected that Gens. Kuroki, Oku, and Nodzu will press forward speedily.

STRENGTH OF OPPOSING ARMIES

Japanese Forces Divided Into Three Commands—Russians Reported to Have 150,000.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SEOUL, Aug. 27.—[Delayed.]—Authoritative information places the total Japanese forces in Manchuria at 200,000 men, distributed as follows:

First army under Gen. Kuroki, composed of the Second and Twelfth divisions and the Imperial guards, with headquarters at Fengwangcheng.

Second army under Gen. Oku, composed of the Third, Fourth, and Sixth divisions, operating against Port Arthur.

Additional to the foregoing, the Fifth division, formerly attached to the second army, now forms with the Tenth division a separate army under Nodzu, with headquarters north of Newchwang.

It is estimated that the number of Russian troops in the Liaoyang region is 150,000. Over six divisions are being screened against the advance of Gen. Oku to the west and south.

Prof. De Martens to Preside Over Commission to Consider Protests of America and England.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—The protests of the United States and Great Britain in regard to Russia's definition of conditional and absolute contraband of war will be taken up at once by a joint commission representing the ministeries of war and marine under the chairmanship of Prof. De Martens, the eminent Russian authority on international law. The result of the deliberations will probably be known before the end of the present week. It is impossible to foreshadow what the decision will be, but well informed people state that the indications are they will remove all cause for friction between Russia and the governments mentioned.

JAPS FIND GREAT GOLD MINE.

Imperial Decree Orders the Development of Rich Field Estimated to Contain $500,000,000.

TOKIO, Aug. 28, 8 p. m.—Following an inspection, made by government engineers, the government has issued a proclamation making, complete preparation to develop gold fields recently discovered in the province of Iwate. The foreigners estimate that these fields will yield gold to the value of $500,000,000, and they are now preparing to start mining operations. It is estimated that the annual yield of the mines will be $15,000,000.

COIL IS TIGHTER AT PORT ARTHUR

Japanese Forces Prepare to Attack Outer Forts from Inside.

TELLS OF HARD FIGHTING

Japanese Officer Gives Details of the Siege During July and August.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

CHEFOO, Aug. 28.—The Japanese attacking Port Arthur are divided into three divisions. One is to the eastward, one to the westward, and the third is kept in reserve away to the north. They themselves estimate their losses now to be 15,000 killed and wounded.

To the eastward the advance guard has pressed along the Dalny road, between forts Nos. 13 and 14, to the Chinese village of Chaochangkao, one mile from the east basin. Eight days ago they were driven out of this position, but they now are holding it with their main body. They regard the forts feeble and hope to capture them soon.

To the westward the Japanese are only 1,200 yards from the new town, facing Paiyuishan, an unfortified mountain overlooking Port Arthur, but they cannot advance further, owing to the firing of Russian ships in the harbor.

The main body of the Russians is concentrated in the east. Their attempt to attack the forts outside has been abandoned, the Japanese having secured Eteshan to the eastward and penetrated the main lines on both sides. They will advance northward with a view of assaulting the forts from the inside. Owing to the extensive area covered by floating mines, the cooperation of the fleet is difficult.

LATEST CHINESE REPORTS.

CHEFOO, Aug. 28, 7 p. m.—Information, which to a great extent confirms previous reports of the conditions at Port Arthur, was received here today by junks which left there on Aug. 24 and Aug. 26.

The most important statement agreed to by passengers on these junks confirms the reports that the Russians have been driven from the fort immediately east of the railroad. This fort is named Rihlungshan, and is located on the tail of the Dragoon hills, along the summits of which the eastern defenses of Port Arthur are built.

When the Russian forces retired from Fort Itzshan they entered fort No. 15, to the north of Chaochanko. During the nights of Aug. 18 and 19, while it was raining, the Japanese attempted to storm Fort Antszshan, which is a strong position adjoining Itzshan toward the city, but they were repulsed with heavy losses.

Nearly Every Man Killed.

During the night of Aug. 22 a heroic band of 500 Japanese attempted to capture fort No. 5 in the midst of a storm. Almost the entire detachment was killed. The Chinese declare, however, that the Russians have evacuated fort No. 5, but whether by reason of this assault or the Japanese artillery fire cannot be learned. The Japanese are unable to occupy No. 5.

The fighting from Aug. 17 to Aug. 22 was severe, but since the latter date it has been comparatively light.

On Aug. 26 the fort on Liaoti mountain was fired on from six Japanese torpedo boats, but the result of this action has not been known.

The Russian marines have left the ships in the harbor and are working at the land batteries. Shells from the Japanese fire continue to fall in Port Arthur and the dockyards and the warships have scattered about the harbor in attempts to protect themselves from the enemy's projectiles.

Battleships Badly Damaged.

A Chinaman who was employed on the docks at Port Arthur says that the battleships Retvizan, Poltava, and Sevastopol are badly damaged. The first mentioned ship rests low in the water by the stern. The battleship Pobieda is in fighting condition.

There are also four gunboats and several torpedo boat destroyers in the harbor. The recent report that eight destroyers escaped from Port Arthur cannot be confirmed.

Seven hundred Chinese who went to Port Dalny in the hope of sharing with the Japanese in the business boom there, returned to Chefoo today and report that the Japanese are monopolizing all opportunities at the port.

JAP STORY OF FIGHTING.

TOKIO, Aug. 28, noon—A wounded Japanese officer who has returned here gives interesting details regarding the earlier preliminary operations against Port Arthur. He says:

"Our forces, after a hot fight, occupied Antzulien and commenced further advance. On July 30 our right wing advanced on Shantaikou, our center towards Shuishiying and Itzushan and the left from the direction of Dalny. The first general attack after this general advance was directed against Takushan and Siaukushan. The right wing then advanced to Chiaokiaweizu and sent outposts to a pine forest near Kokiatung.

"We dug trenches for our outposts, each a yard square deep, which permitted two men to stand in each. Twenty-five yards separate each trench. These trenches proved ineffective.

"On Aug. 4 our artillery opened fire for the purpose of developing the strength of the enemy. Numerous skirmishes followed us.

Shelled by Russian Guns.

"On Aug. 6 the Russians mounted heavy guns in the neighborhood of Yutashan and shelled us. Our artillery assembled at Chukaitung and responded. The duel continued until Aug. 8. After a hot fight we captured and occupied Siaokushan.

"On Aug. 9 the Russians endeavored to retake these positions. They made a desperate night assault, but were repulsed. The Russian artillery mistook the retreaters for Japanese and fired upon them. Our reserves arrived on the 10th, greatly strengthening our position.

"On the night of Aug. 13 our right wing made an attack in the direction of Yutashan. They reached Kokiatung undiscovered and a desperate fight followed, the lines closing in and using the bayonet in a midnight fight. The battle continued for some days and the Japanese finally succeeded in occupying Yutashan."

BLOCKADE NOT COMPLETE.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 25.—[Delayed.]—Numerous reliable reports which have reached here through a dispatch carrier and other persons are to the effect that despite the extreme Japanese measures of the last fortnight to perfect a blockade of Port Arthur by means of sinking all junks near that place, the Russians outside Port Arthur are considerably underestimated, as is also the resisting power of the fortress, which is likely to hold out for two months, and possibly until January, even under such a strength of assault as the Japanese are using.

Contrary to the belief here that the Japanese had taken the outer forts at Port Arthur, it is now understood that the Russians, up to Aug. 15, were successfully defending a five mile circumference, and that although the old town was receiving an average of twenty-five Japanese shells daily the restaurants and clubs, properly safeguarded, continued open and there was order throughout the town.

The Japanese occasionally shell the new town and often attempt to rush the outer trenches, sometimes arriving to within 100 yards of them, when they are unable to hold their own, owing to the mortality in their ranks.

CLOSE TO NEW TOWN.

LONDON, Aug. 29, 3 a. m.—The correspondent at Tientsin of the Standard, cabling Saturday afternoon, says:

"Confirmatory details just arrived represent the Japanese as having reached a point within 1,200 yards from the new town at Port Arthur on the west side, and as being within a mile of the east dock basin, on the east side. Strong reinforcements, it is said, are hurrying up from Dalny and Pitsewo, leaving reserves at both places."

A dispatch to the Standard from Tokio says an unofficial report declares that since the explosion of the magazine fort on Lautishan hill, near Port Arthur, the Russians have appeared to be entirely without smokeless powder, but the obstinacy of their defense is unabated. The garrison is said to feel the heat so that troops are called to sorties and fight in their underclothes.

Similar to 1894 Attack.

The London papers this morning have numerous special dispatches from the far east, most of them dealing with the position of Port Arthur. It is pointed out that the Japanese tactics are similar to those adopted by Gen. Oyama in 1894, but that, granting the Japanese have penetrated as far as represented, which is considered doubtful, there are still formidable forts to be silenced before a general assault is possible.

ARGENTINA AND URUGUAY MAY BREAK NEGOTIATIONS.

South American Republics Near Clash Owing to Arming of Insurgent Force on Soil of Former Country.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 28.—Diplomatic relations between Argentina and Uruguay have become strained almost to the breaking point as a result of the discovery that a Uruguayan insurrectionary force was fitted out in Argentine territory.

The revolutionists numbered 180 men, fully armed and equipped, and were under command of Col. Pempillon and were aboard a steamer off the Uruguayan coast.

Warned of Expedition.

President Ordonez of Uruguay had been warned that preparations were being made for an insurrectionary expedition and dispatched two forces with armed vessels to watch for the expedition. At night the government troops attacked the insurrectionists with a continuous and merciless fire. Many of the latter swam ashore, but eight, badly wounded, were captured. The fate of the others is not known.

The insurrectionary vessel also was captured and with it a considerable quantity of telegraph apparatus.

Paraguay Insurgents Active.

Paraguayan revolutionary vessels are extremely active. They are carrying men, horses, and arms and are searching all passenger boats. An Argentine warship yesterday threatened to fire on the revolutionary squadron if it intercepted vessels flying the flag of the Argentine republic.

RUSSIA MAY TAKE A CHINESE PORT.

Fear Expressed in Japan That Baltic Fleet Will Seize Harbor for Base.

KEEP WATCH ON FRANCE.

Report That Paroled Sailors of Variag Are Again in Service Causes Trouble.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—Is Russia contemplating the seizure of a Chinese port as a base for the Baltic fleet? This question has been raised here, and, together with the attitude of France toward the Russian cruiser now at Saigon, has created a fresh fear of serious complications.

The Nichi Nichi, in an editorial on "National Self-Defense," remarks that the international complications which Russia caused at Chefoo and Shanghai have surprised the world.

Might Seize Chinese Port.

"A more serious question," continues the Nichi Nichi, "arises in regard to the possible escape of the Port Arthur fleet. If the entire Port Arthur fleet had taken refuge in either harbor would China have been unable to drive them out?

"A more serious question still is, should the Baltic fleet come to the east, would China be able to prevent it from occupying one of her ports as a base?

"The arrival of the Russian cruiser Diana at Saigon, the port of French Indo-China, has raised the question as to how France, being the ally of Russia, will act. The result is awaited patiently. The only course left for Japan is to defend herself. It is hoped, however, that the case will remain merely a theoretical one."

Fresh Trouble at Shanghai.

[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—Fresh trouble has developed regarding the fugitive Russian warships Askold and Grozovoi. Japan, having discovered that the paroled crews of the Variag and Koriets, the Russian warships destroyed at Chemulpo on Feb. 8, have now been drafted into the Baltic fleet, insists that China shall detain the Russian crews of the dismantled ships here until the war is over, following Germany's action at Tsingtau.

Jap Fleet on Guard.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 29, 3 a. m.—A dispatch from Shanghai to the Times says the squadron of Rear Admiral Urui, which has been watching the Russian vessels at Shanghai, will remain in the vicinity until the Japanese conditions in regard to these ships have been fulfilled.

Mr. Otaghiri, Japanese consul, has warned the Chinese government in no light manner in regard to further hesitation or evasion on its part of the duties of a neutral. The taotai has referred the warning to Peking.

In view of the undesirability of locating the crews of the Russian warships in the foreign settlement, where their presence among the numerous Japanese would tend only to cause friction, it is expected that the taotai will suggest that they be quartered in the French settlement.

END OF STRIKE CLOSE AT HAND.

Men Today Will Make Final Overtures for Conference with Packers.

LOOK FOR A REFUSAL.

Union Needs Cash and Donnelly Paves Way for Terminating Struggle.

The end of the packing house strike now is believed to be in sight. Some of the workers are expected to return today and more are looked for by the employers in the following days of the week.

Officers of the butcher workmen today will make a last effort to secure terms from the packers. They will seek an audience for the purpose of arriving at an understanding to terminate the struggle. If they fail, it is said the men will be told to go back to work wherever they can get it and at whatever terms they can secure.

Representatives of the employers have announced that no joint "conference" will be held. The union leaders, however, are hopeful of some sort of an audience with the packers.

Make Plans for Closing Fight.

At a meeting of the executive board of the union last night at the Transit house plans were made for the closing acts of the seven weeks' fight. The facts were set before the labor men and cognizance was taken of them. It was admitted that the union was nearly out of funds, and that the packers were running their plants well up toward normal capacity.

Teamsters to Take a Vote.

Cornelius P. Shea, president of the Teamsters' International union, early this morning issued the following statement:

"I am led to believe, by telegrams and letters, that the packinghouse teamsters are desirous of returning to work. They will be given a chance to vote on this question Monday night."

"Donnelly will have to depend upon his own resources hereafter in the strike," said President George F. Golden of the packing house teamsters in the afternoon at the annual picnic at Oswald's grove. "He will receive no more money from the packing house teamsters. We have been getting the worst of this strike from the beginning, and we are tired of it. All the proceeds of this picnic—$1,200—will be used for the benefit of our own local union. The teamsters are willing to stick, but they are through supporting Donnelly's 20,000 men."

Expressions from union sources made it apparent that the leaders would anticipate the break by calling the strike off. They will do this, it is said, in the hope that most of the strikers will be given their former places, and that the union then again can be built up and demands made later for an agreement.

Gain for Individual Members.

While this outcome of the struggle will mean the complete defeat of the labor organization, it will result in gain for the individual members. The packers have announced that they intend to make radical changes in the system of operation of the packing houses, which will remove the conditions that caused the strike. Fewer men are to be employed and these are to be given full time each week.

This will make it possible for the workers to earn larger wages. It was the low amount of wages a week for each man, due to the few hours during the dull seasons, that created discontent. The packers declared the union stood in the way of any move that would give the employés more hours, as this would reduce the number of workers.

Way for End Already Prepared.

The way was prepared for the termination of the struggle when President Donnelly of the butchers' last Friday sent telegrams to the out of town members of the executive board. On the same day the employers and the labor men were before the city council mediation committee and each side presented its case to the aldermen.

The packers let it be understood they would not yield from their previous stand—that they would not make an agreement with the union and that they did not desire another conference with its leaders. The aldermen knew, at the close of the session, that they could accomplish nothing.

After the labor committee had laid its case before Mayor Harrison and the council members, the reply of the employers was given to it. The union men concluded not to give up without one more trial. They told the mayor and the aldermen that the executive board of the butchers would be in the city yesterday and that a conference would be sought of the packers today.

The city hall meetings therefore adjourned with the understanding that if the packers did not grant the hearing asked the labor men would return to the aldermen this afternoon.

Union Leaders on the Ground.

Several of the leaders of the union arrived in Chicago on Saturday, and the rest came yesterday. Those present at the Transit house were Michael Donnelly and William M. Stirling of Chicago, C. E. Schmidt of San Francisco, Stephen Vail of Omaha, Louis Reinhart of Kansas City, George McMeachin of St. Joseph, Mo.; Patrick Moran of St. Louis, and Homer D. Call of Syracuse, N. Y.

Their deliberations were conducted in secret and all questions were met with the reply that nothing would be given out until the result of the application for a conference was known. It was intimated, however, that the management of the strike was severely criticised. The second strike, it is said, was declared a mistake which had placed the union in jeopardy.

Leaders Demand End of Strike.

It is said that then the demand was made by some of the board members that the union workers be sent back as soon as possible, with an agreement if it could be secured, and without it if not. If the attempt was made to continue the strike the men would desert, it was said, and the union would lose all control of them.

The decision of the board is reported to have been that the struggle positively must end this week. If the packers enter into a conference with the labor men, as was reported to have been arranged, an effort will be made to wrest from them some concession to offer to the men. An agreement will be asked, as a matter of course. On the refusal of the employers the plan of the union men is said to be to propose that the strike be called off on condition that a certain large percentage of the strikers be reinstated within a specified period.

May Call It Off Unconditionally.

This is believed to be the last proposition to be submitted by the labor committee. If it should be rejected the union men will report to the aldermen and seek their advice. Then, if no loophole appears, it is declared the strike will be called off unconditionally, and the energy of the leaders will be directed to securing employment for the men and for perfecting anew the organization of the packing house crews.

UNION MEN COMMITTED TO JAIL.

Albuquerque, N. M., Strikers Alleged to Have Violated Injunction Against Interfering with Workers.

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 28.—O. Marinan, president of the Albuquerque Central Labor union, has been given a sentence of seventy days in jail and four other striking Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway machinists have been sentenced to sixty days each for assault upon a strike breaker in violation of an injunction issued by the local court recently, restraining the strikers from interfering with the new men.

Concert by Second Regiment Band.

The Second regiment band will give a concert in Oak Park tomorrow, assisted by the Slayton jubilee singers. The program will include twelve numbers, of both classical and popular music.

Girl Shot by Jealous Stepfather.

AUGUSTA GUTH.

Lorenz Lentsch shot his stepdaughter, Augusta Guth, and her sweetheart, Edward Moeller, and then shot and killed himself. The girl is severely wounded. Moeller is only slightly hurt. The shooting occurred in the Lentsch residence in Aubert avenue.

STRIKE ADDS TO DEATHS.

TWO MEN KILLED IN FIGHTS DUE TO THE LOCKOUT.

One Accuses Another in Saloon of Being Nonunionist and Latter Seizes Bread Knife, Cutting Antagonist's Throat—Another, Employed at the Stockyards, Has Trouble Over Crap Game and Shoots Companion—Fugitive Wounded by Policeman.

Two murders yesterday grew out of the strike, and a policeman shot a fugitive.

Thomas Dillon, colored, 24 years old, lost his life last evening in the street in front of a saloon at 3500 State street. Thomas Osborne, colored, 23 years old, was arrested, charged with the crime.

The trouble began in the saloon, where Dillon is said to have called Osborne a "strike breaker." Osborne seized a bread knife from the lunch counter, the police say, pursued Dillon into the street, and then cut his throat. Dillon died almost instantly. His residence was at 2959 Poplar avenue.

Killed in Fight Over Crap Game.

A crap game in which a colored player was accused of cheating was responsible for the killing of Thomas Taylor of Cleveland, O. Leonard Dunke, 3438 Dearborn street, is supposed to have fired the fatal shot. With eight other employés Taylor and Dunke were playing near the messroom of the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger plant. Dunke asserted the dice were loaded, when Taylor drew a revolver, as did Dunke. Both men fired two shots each, and Taylor fell with a bullet in his head. Dunke was pursued by Policeman James Hart, but escaped on an Archer avenue car.

Policeman Shoots Fugitive.

Jerry O'Leary, a member of the Sheet Metal Workers' union and a former employé of Armour & Co., attacked John O'Connor, a cook, in the messroom of Morris & Co., and while attempting to escape from Patrolman Corliss, who interfered, was shot twice in the thigh by the policeman. The shooting occurred near the Exchange avenue gate of the stockyards at 1 o'clock in the morning, but O'Leary was not found until two hours later, when he took refuge in a restaurant at 4253 Halsted street. He was removed to the Provident hospital.

Beaten; May Lose an Eye.

John Grace was beaten while leaving the stockyards in the evening. He was taken to the Provident hospital, where it was said he might lose the sight of his left eye.

Fred W. Newell and Otto Morebeck, former union men, but now workers at the stockyards in Hammond, Ind., were set upon by twenty strikers at 1 o'clock in the morning. Morebeck was severely injured.

Mistaken for a nonunion man at Forty-second and Halsted streets, Mathew Schiorel, 2920 Canal street, was beaten by four men. Schiorel was on his way to his parents' house at 4247 Halsted street and was thrown to the ground and kicked in the face. The men ran away and Schiorel started for the stockyards police station. At Forty-third street the same men met him and again beat him. He was taken to the Englewood Union hospital.

MOB SEIZES RETURNED EXILE.

A. G. Ledue, Deported from Cripple Creek, Goes Back from Anaconda and Falls Captive.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Aug. 28.—A. G. Ledue, one of the members of the Western Federation of Miners, who was deported, returned from Anaconda today, and while in the custody of a deputy sheriff was taken in charge by a body of armed men. When the news of the occurrence reached Sheriff Bell he sent a force of deputies in search of the mob and its captive.

MEET IN MEMORY OF FOSTER.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis and Others Deliver Addresses in the Evanston Presbyterian Church.

Services in memory of Volney W. Foster were held yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church of Evanston. Addresses were made by the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, the Rev. Charles J. Little, and the Rev. H. P. Smith, all of whom had known Mr. Foster intimately.

Representatives attended from the Union League club, National Business league, Ethical club, Sheridan Road association, Holland society, Sons of the American Revolution, and Evanston Historical society.

"The measure of a man's personality is the measure of the depth and power of his emotions," said Dr. Hillis. "I never have known a man of greater depth and power of emotional life than Volney W. Foster. He was a man of deep and broad sympathies, expressed in his philanthropy, which gave a charm to his personality, and which made him universally loved."

Military School for Oak Park.

Plans are on foot for the installation of a military training school as an adjunct to the Oak Park public school system. The course would be elective and the parents of boys taking it would bear the expense. Maj. F. W. Barber is the originator of the plan.

FINDS END OF WANDERING

AGED PHILOSOPHER MEETS LONELY DEATH IN CHICAGO.

Charles E. Norris, a Peripatetic Sociologist, Once Newspaper Man, Dies Suddenly After Reaching the Goal of His Travels—Starting at Age of 60, Had Spent Three Years in "Underworld"—Intended to Write Story of Adventures.

"Whisky row's" soiled pavement was the deathbed, Saturday night, of Charles E. Norris, once, according to his private notes, associate political editor with William Jennings Bryan on the Omaha World-Herald.

His death is the story of a promise unfulfilled. When the white haired philosopher fell, striken with apoplexy, there was stilled a heart burdened with gratitude, anxious to write the story of the human kindness shown to a wanderer in the underworld.

So little done, brave heart, so much to do!
Since first sun and stars looked down to scan
The core of nature's mocking mystery, man,
This was the cry of workers such as you;
Each strive and strove, till, sudden, brought in view,
The rich fruition of the striver's plan,
Shone far away beyond life's narrowing span,
Shone while the world was waving him adieu."

This poem was found upon his body and was dated Toledo, O., Aug. 8, 1904. It is an epitome of his hopes and fears, and in view of his death, twenty days later, is strangely significant.

Was Wandering Philosopher.

Charles Norris was a peripatetic philosopher, a proletarian sociologist. Unlike the author of "The Workers," he could not go back. He was an old man and Chicago was his goal. Here he intended to write the book of his adventures and his thanks to those who helped him.

Aug. 9, 1901, is assigned by Norris in his memoirs as the time of his setting out on his travels. He had $1.60 in his pocket. For fifteen years he was manager of the Denver News, and had worked on various western papers. His writings are known to readers of the Buffalo Sunday Courier.

At the age of 60 years he started out to see the world anew. He was in ill health, and the first stages of his 15,000 mile journey on foot were painful.

"I was on the verge of consumption," he says in his notebook, "and walking seemed my only salvation. I had spent all my money seeking health, and found it among the penniless, my truest friends."

Traveled Widely in America.

During the three years of his travels he traversed nearly every part of the United States and Canada.

"Usually," he writes, "I met with kindness. Tramps will share their last crust with you, though they will knife you if they think you are holding back any money. Railroad men were my best friends."

In his notebook were recorded the names of all those who had shown him kindness. Telegraph men, tower operators, station agents, and switchmen are especially mentioned. His nights were spent on the floor of a station or a tower house, a newspaper for a mattress, and a coat for a blanket.

Saturday afternoon he arrived in Chicago from Laporte, Ind. Walking down South State street he suddenly fell, and when the police arrived he was dead. The body was taken to Rolston's morgue, 22 East Adams street, where an inquest will be held today. The name of J. M. Norris, Geneva, O., was found among his notes.

HUGS MAN IN STREET AND CALLS HIM LOST HUSBAND.

Chicagoan Persuades Her to Go to the Police Station—She Dodges at Door and He Is Happy.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Richard Levett, he said, was his name. He entered the West Forty-seventh street station tonight and began to tell his troubles to the sergeant at the desk.

"Sergeant," he said, "I was married in Chicago fifteen years ago, and my late lamented wife drowned herself in Lake Michigan after five years of happy wedded life. I give you my word of honor.

"Tonight I was coming up Broadway, when a woman I believe I have never seen before cried, 'Ah, Dick, where have you been all these years?' and threw her arms around my neck. My wife always called me 'Dick.' This woman said she was my long lost wife. I told her she wasn't. She insisted that she was, and kept on hugging me. She has been following me ever since. I suggested that we come here to settle it, and here we are. She's outside; I'll bring her in."

Levett disappeared for fifteen minutes. Then he returned with a smile. "She's gone, I'm happy," he said.

RETAINS BODY OF MRS. M'VICKER.

Dr. Zeigler in California Ignores Order of the Stepson in Chicago.

FIGHT ON WILL IMPENDS.

Declares Deposit Box Will Not Be Opened Until He Comes with Casket.

Horace McVicker yesterday was informed by telegraph that Dr. L. C. H. E. Zeigler had shown an unwillingness to surrender the body of his stepmother, Mrs. J. H. McVicker, widow of the theatrical man, to her niece, Mrs. Clara Belle Game of San Francisco, who had been authorized by the stepson to bring the body from Los Angeles, Cal., to Chicago for burial.

In apparent contradiction with McVicker's declarations was a report from Pasadena, where his stepmother died, that Mrs. Game and Mrs. Robert Effey, her sister, had arrived there and held a long confidence with Dr. Zeigler.

Nieces on Good Terms with Zeigler.

No differences were apparent, and the nieces refused to say whether or not they would come to Chicago. The physician declared he knows nothing of the provisions of the will believed to be in Chicago. The safety deposit box would be opened, he said, when the body of Mrs. McVicker, accompanied by himself, reaches Chicago.

With tears the physician protested against any further autopsy. Dr. R. V. Day and Dr. Stanley Black yesterday examined the stomach and liver of Mrs. McVicker and found them normal.

Will Contest Claim of Zeigler.

"If Zeigler is made a beneficiary in any will of my stepmother, I will contest it, in conjunction with her other relatives and heirs," said Horace McVicker yesterday. "We will allege that undue influence was exerted on Mrs. McVicker by the osteopathic physician. I do not believe he figures in the will. He probably got all he could from my stepmother while she was alive."

In the stepson's opinion, the will written for Mrs. McVicker four years ago by Attorney L. D. Condee was destroyed a year and a half ago, when the latter ceased to be her legal adviser. Soon afterward, McVicker declared, he believed a second will was prepared under the direction of the physician.

"I don't believe material changes were made in the disposition of the estate," said McVicker. "This will probably is the last one made by my stepmother and the one Zeigler will be called on to produce, if it is in his keeping. We expect, however, to find it in a safety deposit vault in Chicago, as soon as we get the keys to the box from the physician."

Unsatisfied by Coroner's Verdict.

"Nothing further will be done at present to confirm the suspicions of relatives that Mrs. McVicker's death was not due to natural causes," said Attorney Condee. "I may say, however, that none of the relatives is satisfied by the coroner's verdict that she died of œdema of the lungs.

The attorney estimated the estate of Mrs. McVicker at $365,000, all in cash, all on deposit in Chicago banks, with the exception of the residence at 1842 Michigan avenue, valued at $35,000.

MAN IS SEVERELY INJURED WHEN AUTO STRIKES BUGGY.

John Cunningham Has Leg Broken and Body Bruised as Result of Collision in Jackson Boulevard.

John Cunningham, 569 West Twelfth street, was severely injured last night by a collision between an automobile and a buggy in Jackson boulevard. At the county hospital it was said his right arm was fractured and his body severely bruised.

Cunningham was riding east in the boulevard when at Loomis street the automobile struck a rear wheel of his buggy, overturning the vehicle. Without looking back to ascertain the extent of the injuries they had caused the automobilists drove on rapidly. Witnesses of the accident said they were goin faster than the speed ordinance allows.

Cunningham's horse was frightened, and it dragged the overturned buggy, with Cunningham beneath it. A policeman stopped the frightened animal and assisted the injured driver to a neighboring drug store, from where he was taken to the hospital. The police were unable to learn the number of the automobile.

Henry Friedman, 1321 Sheffield avenue, narrowly escaped serious injury late last night when an automobile in which he was riding with his wife was overturned by a street car in North Halsted street, near Addison avenue. The front of the car was damaged and the occupants of the automobile were thrown to the street, Friedman suffering a cut above the right eye. Mrs. Friedman was not injured. According to the police, Friedman attempted to cross in front of a moving south bound Evanston car. The motorman was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision.

MAKE RULES FOR COURTING.

Young Women in Zion City Are Forbidden to Talk to Men on Streets.

Courting in Zion City hereafter will be under definite restrictions, it was reported yesterday. The new rules are:

A girl under 18 years old will not be allowed to speak to a young man on the street.

If she is a young woman 18 or over she may speak to a young man only by the consent of both his and her parents.

In his sermon in Shiloh tabernacle Dr. Dowie again commended President Roosevelt and assailed the masonic order. All were asked to pray for the election of the president.

In the course of the meeting Dr. Dowie asked the women to remove their hats.

WILL CROWN QUEEN TONIGHT.

Ruler of West Madison Street Carnival to Be Honored at Garfield Park.

The coronation of Queen Lucille I. will take place tonight at the West Madison street carnival. The crown will be placed on the head of Miss Lucille Nau by two little girls, Lorna Walduck and Beatrice N. Snow.

Following the ceremony, which will be performed at the throne in front of the band stand in Garfield park, there will be a parade of three floats, bearing the queen and her retinue. The fireworks will be in honor of the Knights of Pythias.

Large crowds thronged the Pike last night and enjoyed the illuminations.

MOTORMAN ATTACKED BY CROWD

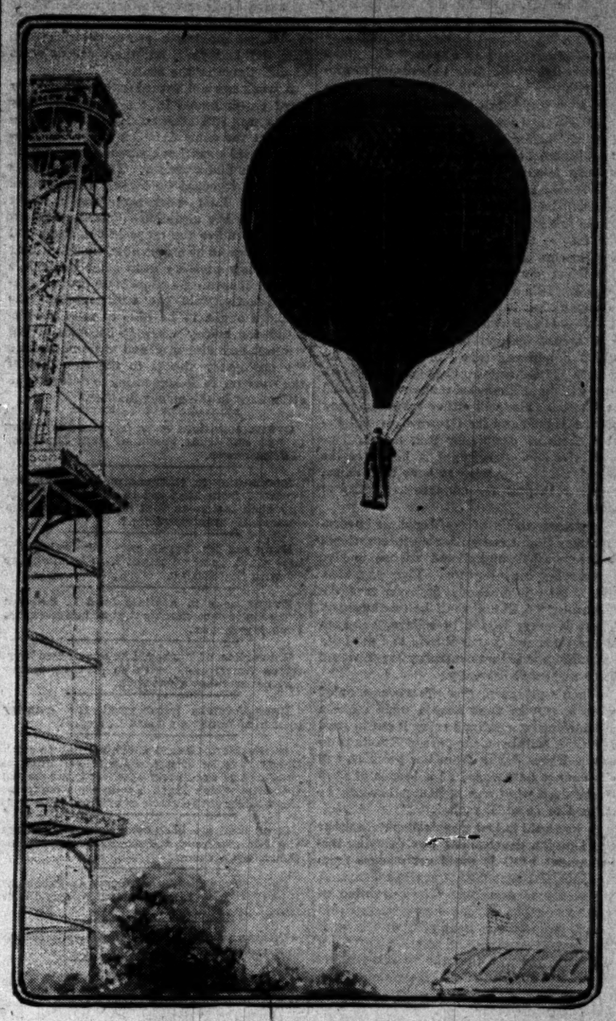

Friends of Man Whose Wagon Was Wrecked by Collision Seek to Avenge Him.

While attempting to assist Frank James, 4950 Wentworth avenue, whose wagon his car had wrecked, Thomas Olson, motorman on the Wentworth avenue electric line, was attacked last night by several men, said to be Greeks, eager to avenge their countryman's injury. The collision occurred in Wentworth avenue near Fifty-fifth street. Olson used the controlling lever to drive the men from the car and made his escape.

ASKS AID FOR HOME RULE.

REDMOND APPEALS TO IRISH AT NEW YORK MEETING.

Suggests That Fund of $50,000 Be Raised in United States to Be Applied Toward Campaign for Self-Government—About $10,000 Subscribed or Paid—Bourke Cockran Also Makes Address—Other Leaders of Race Speak.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish party in the house of commons, told the audience which filled Carnegie hall tonight that he has come here hoping to be able to raise $50,000 in this country for the Irish cause. The meeting was under the auspices of the United Irish league of America. Ten thousand dollars was subscribed or paid in cash toward the fund. Col. Duffy of the Sixty-ninth regiment and staff in uniform were on the stage. When Congressman W. Bourke Cockran appeared he had to make a speech.

Redmond said that he came to this country to explain what had been accomplished through assistance obtained here two years ago and to ask further help. He said that the money given at that time had brought about the passage of the land act in the British parliament and Ireland had reason to be proud of the result.

Aids Home Rule Fight.

"But that," he added, "is only a means to obtaining home rule. Nothing will satisfy us but self-government. The great unionist party in England is doomed, and the Irish control the voting balance of 100 constituencies in Great Britain, and will demand home rule from the candidates there at the next general election.

"Then we will have the balance of power in the British parliament and the home rule bill will pass. We must have financial aid from America to take advantage of the opportunity. I don't think I ask too much in requesting the people of this country to give us a campaign fund of $50,000 between now and the time of the general election.

Meet Revival of Coercion.

"We have met the revival of coercion. Trial by jury had been suspended; it has been resumed. The new form of conspiracy, whereby the Irish landlords sued the holders of the land, has been met, thanks to the aid of the American fund. Never again will free speech or trial by jury be denied to us or arbitrary imprisonment be inflicted."

When Mr. Cockran appealed to the people to assist the struggling Irish members of parliament a man in the audience cried out:

"Why don't you assist them, Cockran?"

"I will assist in a way that will help the cause most, and that is by going down in my pocket."

Other speakers were Capt. A. J. C. Donelan, Patrick O'Brien, and Conor O'Kelly, other members of parliament, Chairman John G. Coyle, and Col. John F. Finerty.

SIT ON PORCH DURING ROBBERY

Burglars Enter the Residence of Barnett Van Buren While the Family Is Outdoors.

Burglars entered the residence of Barnett Van Buren, 768 Warren avenue, last evening and stole clothing and jewelry valued at $200. The householder and his wife were sitting on the veranda when the robbery was committed.

Three men were arrested in the morning after a fight with detectives. They are: John Dillon, 21 years old; Joseph Linn, 24 years old; and George Brown, 30 years old, and are accused of holding up John Kucinski, 645 Clybourn avenue, and Vladislaus Pelkerski, 1257 Marshfield avenue, near Elston and Armitage avenues.

The men were arrested in a saloon near where the robbery took place.

GUESTS FIGHT: ONE IS SHOT.

Frank Hauck, 2293 North Mozart Street, Entertains Three Friends and Trouble Results.

Frank Hauck, 2293 North Mozart street, early yesterday morning entertained three friends at his house. William Steffen, 104 Irving Park boulevard, was shot in the left side, and John B. Steinfelns, Irving Park boulevard and Western avenue, also a guest, was arrested.

Stabbings recorded during the day were as follows:

BAKER, EDWARD, 30 years old, 17 North Peoria street, died at county hospital from knife wounds. Joseph Murphy arrested.

LEASKI, JOE, with Michael Witczek and Louis Nordale, stabbed while quarreling with several Italians at Halsted street and Milwaukee avenue; five arrests.

NO TRAINS TO LOS ANGELES.

Water Carries Away Three Miles of Southern Pacific Track in the Desert.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—For the first time since there have been two railroads built into Los Angeles from the east there were no overland trains in or out of the city today. Traffic on the Southern Pacific is at a standstill owing to a washing out of the track on the desert, between Beaumont and El Casco. Three miles of track was carried out, and traffic will not be resumed before tomorrow.

AIRSHIP CONTEST SEEMS A FAILURE.

Prof. Tomlinson's Balloon Is Observed in Illinois, but Going Slowly.

HE MAY ABANDON TRIP.

Prof. Myers, Who Came to Grief in Missouri, Has Returned to St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The world's fair balloon contest seems to be doomed to failure.

Following Prof. Myers' disastrous descent in a cornfield near St. Charles, Mo., last night, word came today from Prof. Tomlinson, the other starter in the proposed trip to Washington for the $5,000 prize, indicating that he is making little progress.

It is thought he will soon abandon the attempt to reach the national capital by the "all-air" route.

Tomlinson Seen in Illinois.

Prof. Tomlinson passed over Avon, Ill., not far from Peoria, at 9:30 this morning.

The balloon was seen this afternoon at 3 o'clock above Wyoming, Ill. It seemed to remain stationary at a height of several hundred feet for fully an hour. Then a breeze sprang up and the balloon drifted slowly away in the direction of Rock Island.

As Prof. Tomlinson was passing Avon he dropped a bun to which a card was attached and on which the following was written:

Will finder please write and tell of balloon passing town or city. GEORGE E. TOMLINSON,
World's Fair grounds, care W. A. Smith.

Making Slow Progress.

Many people of Avon saw the balloon and thought it was sailing east at a rate of twenty miles an hour. They thought it was at least a mile high.

Three homing pigeons taken with him on his journey by Prof. Tomlinson arrived safely last night and this morning, but none of them bore any message nor anything to show when and where they had been released.

Prof. Myers Returns to St. Louis.

Prof. Myers, who alighted in a cornfield at St. Charles last night, after a flight of two and one-half hours, arrived in St. Louis this noon. He kept his balloon inflated till 10 o'clock this morning, hoping for a favorable wind by which he might sail back to the world's fair. As the wind continued from the west, however, he packed his gas bag in a box, and, leaving word to have it shipped to St. Louis, came home.

Prof. Myers did not go out to the world's fair, but went to dine with friends and could not be found all day. He stated over a telephone tonight that he had no explanation to make of his failure, but might give out a statement tomorrow. He merely remarked that the wind was as unfavorable as could be imagined.

Went Up 7,500 Feet.

At St. Charles, where he spent the night with Capt. J. W. Ruenzi, superintendent of the asylum, Prof. Myers said his register showed the highest altitude he attained to have been 7,500 feet. He admitted that he came down much against his will and more rapidly than he would have chosen, but scoffed at the suggestion that he would have been killed if two sons of Louis Kister, a farmer in whose corn field he alighted, had not run to his assistance when they saw the balloon, strike the earth and rebound.

PORTO RICAN COFFEE.

During the last fiscal year the United States bought Porto Rican products to the value of $11,576,000. The principal items were sugar and molasses, $8,997,000, and tobacco and cigars, $1,721,000. The exports to countries other than the United States amounted to $4,436,000. Coffee was the most important commodity sent them.

The coffee question is still troubling the Porto Ricans greatly. Before the Spanish war that berry was their most valuable product. They had an exclusive market in Spain and Cuba, and exported as much as $8,000,000 worth a year. The Porto Ricans have mostly lost the Cuban and Spanish markets, and the Americans will not buy their coffee, fine as it is, largely because of the high price asked. The average cost of the coffee brought into this country, chiefly from Brazil, is 7 cents a pound, while that of Porto Rico is worth 25 cents. This country bought only $279,000 worth of it last year.

The Porto Rican papers continue to insist that the United States should impose a duty on all coffee except that imported from their island. They say that if that were done a languishing industry would be revived. That is something which cannot be done. Americans consume 1,000,000,000 pounds of coffee a year. If there were need of revenue the imposition of a small duty would be proper, but no duty should be levied simply to encourage the production of coffee in Porto Rico, which can supply only an infinitesimal part of the quantity consumed here.

The conditions being such as have been described, it is better for the Porto Ricans to make sugar their mainstay. As regards that article, they have an advantage over all other producers, except those of the United States and of Hawaii. There is money for them in sugar and also in tobacco. As for the owners of the coffee plantations, if they will make greater efforts to acquaint Americans with the fine flavor of their high grade product, they will in time have a good market for it here. Congress will not try to create a market for them by taxing the cheaper coffees which are generally used so as to make their cost approach more nearly that of the Porto Rican berry.

A CURE FOR HAY FEVER!

Prof. W. F. Dunbar, a German scientist of American birth, has returned to his native shores, bringing news that is welcome to many people, especially at this time of year. He has produced a serum which, he says, will cure hay fever.

Hay fever is seldom or never fatal, but it is one of the most persistently irritating diseases from which men suffer. Having selected a victim, it returns every August or thereabouts to torture him. It keeps him constantly for from two to six weeks between a hacking cough and a tearing sneeze. It converts his eyes and nostrils into plenteous fountains of woe. It assails him with asthmatic paroxysms. It prostrates him with thumping headaches. Without killing him itself it leaves him in such a nervous and debilitated condition that he may fall an easy prey to some less leisurely and more violent disorder.

Hay fever is caused by the pollen of certain plants which the winds begin in the latter part of summer to blow about and deposit in large quantities on the mucous membrane of people's eyes and noses. Brain workers and other nervous persons are especially subject to it. To the pollen from rye grass most of the hay fever in Europe is due. Golden rod, rag weed, and corn are the great disseminators of it in this country. Scientists formerly thought the minute barbs on the pollen of some plants were what set up the irritation of the membranes. For many years physicians have prescribed a few weeks' stay at the seaside to their hay fever patients, the object being to get them as far as possible out of the reach of the pollen carrying breezes. Some persons have escaped these breezes and found relief by spending the hay fever season high up in the mountains. Various medicinal remedies have been applied to the disease, but all have proved more or less ineffective.

Prof. Dunbar says the mistake of scientists has consisted in attributing hay fever to the barbs on pollen. His investigations have shown that its origin is not mechanical but chemical—that it is caused by a certain poisonous albumen which the pollen contains. There is no such thing as an antidote for a barb. The toxin he has invented, Prof. Dunbar says, is an effective antidote to the poisonous albumen and cures the trouble to which it gives rise. Thousands of persons who cannot afford to flee every year to the seaside or mountains or who don't enjoy having to choose between fleeing and staying sneezing and snuffling at home, heartily desire that his remedy may bear the test of experience.

THE RUSSIAN SHIPS AT SHANGHAI.

If the disarmament of the two Russian warships which took refuge at Shanghai is not effected promptly Japan "will take whatever steps she deems necessary to protect her interests." This is the substance of a note which has been addressed by the Japanese government to the great powers, of whose desire that the agreement regarding Chinese neutrality shall be observed it is fully aware.

It is easy to perceive how Japanese interests will be affected unfavorably by a continued breach of Chinese neutrality such as the failure to compel the disarmament of the Russian ships would be. If the Baltic fleet is not now on its way to the east, it will be soon. It is a matter of much importance to Japan that it shall not be reinforced by the vessels now at Shanghai.

It is not difficult to imagine the steps which Japan will take "to protect her interests" if disarmament be too long delayed. She will do at Shanghai much what she did at Chefoo. She will either seize and carry off the Askold and the Grozovoi, or will disable them so completely that they will be unserviceable. Therefore it behooves the Russians, if they wish to save their ships, to show respect for Chinese neutrality at once.

Representatives of the Japanese government say that it recognizes the international interests at Shanghai and wishes to give them every consideration. They say, also, that Japan is sincerely desirous that the neutrality of China shall be maintained. There is every reason to believe that such is the case, and that if Russia had not been so indifferent to that neutrality Japan would have respected it loyally.

Japan's pledge to that effect was coupled with a proviso that Russia must make a similar engagement and carry it out in good faith. A failure on the part of Russia to do that releases Japan from her promise, and she cannot be accused of a breach of faith if she does what she intimates she may be obliged to do at Shanghai.

It was said in last week's dispatches that the Russian government was delaying disarmament until it could get pledges from the Japanese that the ships, when disarmed, would not be attacked. The reiterated assurances of the Japanese government that it will respect the neutrality of China, if Russia will do so, are an indirect, and yet a sufficient, promise that the vessels will not be touched if dismantled. Russia should be content with that and do what she should have done many days ago.

Otherwise Japan will proceed "to protect her interests," and cannot be held blameworthy for doing so. She is under no obligation to be more regardful of Chinese neutrality than her opponent. She never promised to be.

NEEDED PENSION LEGISLATION.

The commissioner of pensions makes in his report for this year some recommendations which are deserving of congressional attention, although they are not new. When they are stated the wonder will be that they were not acted on years ago.

One is that it should be made the law that any man who is convicted in a court of a heinous crime shall forfeit his pension, or his right to one. Why should a man who has blackened his military record by leading a criminal life as a civilian have his name on the roll of honor? The inmate of a penitentiary is not deserving of the aid the people gladly give to those who have unsullied records.

Another recommendation is that the giving of pensions to women who marry soldiers after they become old pensioners be forbidden. It is a notorious fact that there are adventuresses who hang around soldiers' homes and endeavor to inveigle into marriage veterans who are on the brink of the grave, not for the purpose of caring for them but in order to claim pensions as soldiers' widows the day after they are dead. They cannot die too soon after marriage to please these harpies.

Why should these speculators in matrimony and death be endowed by the state with incomes as if they had performed some meritorious action? The genuine soldier's widow deserves all the existing laws give her. It is outrageous that the names of these impostors should be on the pension roll. It is extraordinary that congress should not have stopped the ghoulish industry which nobody has ever ventured to defend. Who would protest against the enactment of a law to put an end to it?

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

The sale of steel wire and nails in Colorado may be stimulated by the action of the United States Steel corporation in shipping 20,000 tons of those products there to be sold at prices considerably lower than those of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. For some reason the larger company wishes to punish its competitor and has hit on a method of doing so which will be satisfactory to Colorado consumers and to the railroads which will haul the freight.

When the United States Steel corporation was organized it was said by its sponsors that it would be so strong and so far beyond the reach of competition that it never would be obliged to resort to the kind of trade war it is now engaged in. That assertion, like some others made at the same time, does not appear to count for much. The great corporation is not master of the situation and cannot dominate prices.

There has been no demoralization of the steel industry thus far. The only visible effect of the strife between the steel companies has been to make buyers cautious. They dislike to give large orders for future delivery while there is a possibility of a further decline in prices. The Republic Iron and Steel company has asked the Amalgamated association to agree to a small graduated reduction of the wages of its employés, and some of the plants of the United States Steel corporation have done likewise. Possibly the request will be complied with. The proposed lowering of wages indicates that there will be no immediate attempt to reëstablish high prices of products.

The bank clearings of the country, which have for some time fallen below those of last year, took a turn for the better last week. There was an increase of 6.5 per cent over the totals for the corresponding week of last year. Traffic officials of leading railroads report an improvement in general business conditions. They say the high prices of grain have stimulated sales of merchandise and lumber and thus provided more freight for the roads. The jobbers agree with the railroad men in the statement that wherever the crops are good there the farmers are liberal buyers. There is a notable demand in the south and southwest, due partly to the good cotton crop, but also to the general prosperity of most of the southern states.

Mississippi will serve as an illustration. In twelve years the deposits in the savings banks have gone from $7,000,000 to $29,000,000. There is an increase of $15,000,000 in the assessed valuation of personal property over last year. The small towns are making public improvements. New industries are being started every week. There is depression in some industries at the north, which are making a poorer showing than they did last year, but there are no signs of dull times in the south.

A week ago last Saturday the surplus over legal requirements in the New York City banks was $58,000,000. It has not been so large at the same date for ten years. The banks held considerably more money than they could find a use for. The current rates at which it could be loaned were almost nominal. Last week there was a slight change in the situation. The demand for money to move the crops in the south and west began to be observable, though it may not become pressing until after the middle of next month. As there is no great speculative activity in the stock markets the bankers ought to be able to meet the demand for money when it becomes urgent without any difficulty and without making the customary appeal to the secretary of the treasury to do something to relieve "the stringency in the money market."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1904: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

NEARLY every one is familiar with the picture, painted, I believe, by Sir Edward Landseer, representing the first duke of Wellington in civilian garb and on horseback escorting his beautiful daughter-in-law, the marchioness of Douro, likewise mounted, over the battlefield of Waterloo, and pointing out to her the most notable features of the scene of his famous victory, peaceful fields of waving corn concealing in the painting all traces of the historic and sanguinary conflict. The lady in this picture, who was the particular favorite of the old duke, and who at his death through the succession of her husband to his honors became second duchess of Wellington, has just died at an advanced age, and her nephew, the present duke, will benefit thereby to the extent of $25,000 a year, which was her jointure from the estates, and of which he is in considerable need, as he no longer draws the pension from the crown of $25,000 a year accorded to the first duke and to his successors.

The late duchess, who was a member of the Hay family, a daughter of the eighth marquis of Tweedale, was held in high esteem by Queen Victoria, and on no less than four different occasions filled the office of mistress of the robes to her majesty, which is the principal feminine dignity at the court of St. James.

Her married life was notoriously unhappy. Her husband, the second duke, a diminutive man, bore but little resemblance either in appearance or in character to his illustrious father, the beaklike nose being the only feature that he had in common with the so-called "Iron Duke." He was a source of no end of annoyance and trouble to his father as a young man, became involved in all kinds of scrapes, one of which at Constantinople, where he with two companions was surprised by a rich and powerful pasha in his seraglio, culminated in a tragedy. His two companions preferred death to the alternative with which they were confronted by the indignant oriental. Lord Douro, as the duke was then, chose the alternative and escaped with his life, the British government declining in spite of the rank of the marquis and of his companions to make any representations about the matter to the Turkish government, taking the ground that the young men by their invasion of the pasha's harem had exposed themselves to the fate by which they were overtaken. As this second duke left no children his honors and estate were inherited at his death by the eldest son of his younger brother, Lord Charles Wellesley.

The third duke, who, by reason of his obesity, used to go by the nickname of "Spurgeon," died four years ago without issue, his widow having this summer become the wife of her kinsman, Fred Wellesley, brother of the late Lord Cowley.

The present and fourth duke is a younger brother of his immediate predecessor, and has a family of six children, the eldest of whom, a son, bears the title of marquis of Douro, and was one of the victims of the ragging scandal at Windsor a couple of years ago.

The duke of Wellington, besides his many English honors, is a prince of Waterloo in the peerage of the Netherlands, a duke of Ciudad Rodrigo, and a grandee of the first class in Spain, where he has large estates, and is also duke of Vittoria and marquis of Torres Vedras in Portugal.

Let me add that the first duke of Wellington's elder brother, the Marquis Wellesley, viceroy of Ireland, governor general of India, and conqueror of Sultan Tippoo, may be described as the first of the great English nobles to seek their brides among the daughters of Uncle Sam, his second wife having been Marianne, daughter of Richard Caton of Philadelphia and widow of Robert Patterson of Baltimore, whose sister, Elizabeth Patterson, was the first wife of Jerome Bonaparte, king of Westphalia and founder of the American line of Bonaparte.

While Lord Muskerry accepts full responsibility in connection with the Invitation Cruise Enterprise, to which I referred a day or two ago in these letters as a scheme of the London tourist agency run by Dr. Lunn & Co., the earl of Tankerville disclaims all participation in the affair, and has issued through his lawyers an announcement to the effect that the circulars which have been issued in his name on paper stamped with his coronet inviting the people to whom they are addressed to join him and the other members of the committee on a winter cruise in the Mediterranean on board the Dominion liner Canada, have been sent out wihout any knowledge, understanding, or consent of the earl.

This being the case it seems that Lord Tankerville, who, as I mentioned the other day, is blessed with an American wife, has a strong cause for action against Lord Muskerry and Dr. Lunn's tourist agency, since all the circulars have been sent out in the shape of invitations coming from himself and made in his name, and he has been subjected in connection with these circulars to a good deal of unfriendly criticism and ridicule.

Sir Edmund Monson, who has just declined the peerage offered to him on his retirement from the post of British ambassador at Paris, is perhaps the only diplomat in King Edward's service whose presence at their respective capitals as ambassador was demanded by two emperors. The late Alexander III. of Russia, who learned to know and like Sir Edmund at Copenhagen when the latter was accredited to the court of King Christian, especially asked the British government to send Sir Edmund to St. Petersburg as ambassador. Alexander was extremely shy, not apt to take fancies, and in view of his pronounced liking for Sir Edmund it is a pity from an English point of view that his flattering invitation did not meet with acquiescence. But Sir Edmund at the same time had been made the object of an analogous request on the part of Emperor Francis Joseph, who regarded him as one of the friends of his youth and was exceedingly anxious to have him at Vienna. The climate of the Austrian capital is preferable to that of the Muscovite metropolis, and, all things considered, the position a more agreeable one, and so Sir Edmund became the representative of Queen Victoria at the court of Francis Joseph instead of at that of Alexander III.

Sir Edmund, who is heir to the peerage of his nephew, Lord Monson, married since a year to the widowed Mrs. Lawrence Turnure of New York, daughter of Gen. Roy Stone, U. S. A., spent a considerable time in this country as secretary of legation during the days of Lord Lyons at Washington. In some way the English cabinet became imbued with the idea that it would add to the prestige of the mission of Lord Lyons if he was sent out to America on board a man of war instead of on a mere passenger boat. Now, Lord Lyons, although the son of a famous admiral, was a perfect martyr to seasickness, and entreated the government to allow him to travel by a Cunarder, and even suggested a compromise in the shape of a proposal that the man of war should await him somewhere off Sandy Hook, and there take him on board from the Cunarder. The government would not give way, however, and Lord Lyons, with Edmund Monson, was compelled to cross the Atlantic on the frigate, which took exactly fifty days to make the trip, owing to contrary winds, Lord Lyons being ill all the time.

A year or so later Sir Edmund was sent by his chief to see how the land lay in Cuba, where he was the guest of Marshal Serrano, and in the southern states being entertained in New Orleans by the Slidells. In fact, he was at the theater in New Orleans when the news arrived that the confederate flag had been hoisted on Fort Sumter. Sir Edmund saw much of President Lincoln, and still retains a large stock of the latter's characteristic stories.

On returning to England after the civil war here, he retired from the diplomatic service to make an unsuccessful attempt to enter parliament, and then for a time devoted himself to journalism, writing trenchant and satirical articles in weekly journals of the society order, which have long since passed out of existence. Subsequently he, through family influence, brought about his restoration to the diplomatic service by way of the consular corps, his first consular post being at the Azores.

At Paris the great and inestimable service which he has rendered to his country has been the tactful way by which he averted war with France at the time of the Fashoda crisis. Had it not been for his extraordinary judgment and skill in tempering the message which he had been directed to deliver hostilities would have been inevitable.

"He that overcometh shall inherit all things."—Revelation, xxi, 7.

One time the sea was wide—so wide
That men declared
No one could find its further side,
Yet one man dared;
One man who dreamed of things to do,
One man who fought his doubting crew
And ventured till his dreams came true.
Then others fared
His way, till all the sea might hide
Their work had bared.

One time the plains were dull and still
And all untrod,
And men gazed at each distant hill
With doubting nod—
But one man braved the lonely miles,
Blazed pathways through the forest aisles;
Men went his way in eager files;
With chain and rod
They marked the place for mart and mill
Upon the sod.

The man who is content to rest
Secure from harms,
In fear of toil's tremendous test
Or war's alarms,
Who hugs, untempted, his safe hearth,
Gives little proof of strength or worth;
His pride is strangled in its birth
And sluggard charms
Have barred the tale of noble quest
From off his arms.

NEWFOUNDLAND FULL OF INTEREST

Interior of Island a Wilderness, but Coast Inhabited by Prosperous Fishermen.

THE American who happens into Newfoundland will find innumerable causes for interest and surprise. The interior of the island is a wilderness primitive and practically unexplored. A quaint, slow, uncertain railway traverses the heart of the island, but for 500 miles of travel over mountains, through dense forests and by the margins of salt water bays and estuaries, not a town is to be seen. Herds of Caribou, as tame as barn yard cattle, stand staring at the passing train. From the bosom of lake and river, trout and salmon are forever leaping. Brant geese, wild ducks, grouse, and many wild birds that migrate hither in the summer can be found all over the island. Here they mate and breed, and their goslings and chicks make the woods and the waters vocal all summer long.

Newfoundland Has No Snakes.

Newfoundland, like Ireland, is innocent of snakes or reptiles. Its hills, all in the interior, are infested with bears, mountain lions, wolves, foxes, and gophers. Song birds are few, the robin predominating in numbers, although there is a species of unmusical jay that may outnumber the red breasted beauty familiar to more southerly and inland latitudes.

This summer more than $20,000,000 worth of forest timber burned. No sustained effort was made to stop the spreading fires, because most of the scourged land is the property of no man. At the brink of a river near the Bay of Islands in August were scores of Caribou, wolves, foxes, bears, and wild creatures of other kinds herded together by a mountain fire which had drived them from the wilderness towards civilization.

Population of Fishermen.

The population of the island is located almost wholly along the coast. The people are all engaged in and devoted to fishing. Upon the church steeples, instead of roosters, are to be found fish. Watch charms, breast pins, lapel buttons—all are in the form of fish. Mountain peaks in the interior are named Jibboom, Topsail, Gunwale, Topgallant, Mainsail, Foresail. Everything is maritime. The people cannot be interested in farming, lumbering, mining, or cattle raising as a business. But investigation shows that the island is rich in areable land, in forests, in mineral, and in native pastures.

The fishermen along the coast contrive to maintain small gardens of vegetables. Many have a few hogs, sheep, and kine, but the yield of garden and barn is only for the domestic uses of the proprietor. He sells nothing but fish and he is happy in the perennial harvest of the sea.

Everybody Owns a Dog.

The Newfoundland dog, black, curly, shapely, as he is known in the United States, is practically extinct in the island. He was always a working dog there; a sledge puller, a wagon dog, a bread winner. But he has been crossed with the Labrador dog, which is stouter, hardier, more tractable, and infinitely more ugly than the Newfoundland canine. Everybody has dogs in Newfoundland, but the dominant breed is bigger than the black native beast, tawny, sharp eared, stout, amiable, patient, insensible to cold, and with thick, padded feet and a capacity for abstinence approaching starvation. This is the mixed Labrador-Newfoundland breed.

Wealth in Seal Fisheries.

The seal fisheries of the island are coming to be one of the richest resources of the citizens. The fleets of sealers set forth on St. Patrick's day from nearly every harbor in the island. The seals are killed with clubs as they are found on the ice floes of the northern seas. Only young seals are taken and international sealing laws prohibit the use of firearms or steel weapons in dispatching the quarry. Each sealer, having killed a load, is required to drag his victims to the boats of his ship. The Newfoundland sealers excel in numbers and skill the mariners of any other section of the world of equal population, and during the brief season of their activities they make enough money to enable them to remain idle the rest of the year.

Sperm Whales Arriving.

In July, 1904, a sperm whale was killed off the east coast of Newfoundland, and from the cavity back of the gigantic skull nearly $400 worth of spermaceti was dipped. This, so far as the records show, is the fourth sperm whale ever caught in northern waters. Within the last four years whaling has sprung to a foremost place among the industries of Newfoundland. For unforeseen and inexplicable reasons these monster mammals of the deep have resumed their visits to the north Atlantic, and dozens of "whale factories" have been built and are now in profitable activity along the coast of the island.

Every part of the whale is now utilized. Oil, bones, skin, entrails, and flesh have places in the marketable products of the mighty creatures. Bologna sausages made from the flesh of the whale are one of the most profitable products and find ready sale in the West Indies and in the markets of Central and South America.

Queer Sort.

The circus elephant was plodding along the pavement when he heard the horn of an automobile.

"Gee, what a fool language," he said; "I can't understand a word of it."

And he trumpeted a few himself.—Buffalo Express.

Miss Harlowe of Washington, D. C.	Eleanor Mansfield
Miss Chestnut of Philadelphia, Pa.	Clare Wilson

John T. McCutcheon's Bird Center folk stepped from their newspaper frames upon the stage at the Grand opera house last night, and there were recognized, welcomed, and acclaimed.

They now have their place in a successful character comedy.

Without defacing their personality, Glen MacDonough has set the artist's characters into a story which runs evenly and humorously to a third act climax of dramatic strength and ingenuity, thereafter gathering its threads together in the fourth act for a laughable, cleverly fashioned conclusion.

The verdict of the audience was not in doubt from the first scene, for each moment brought something to amuse or hold intent interest. The enthusiasm, however, was so well nursed along that its height was reserved for exactly the proper moment—the curtain scene of the third act.

There the playgoers heard the Mysterious Stranger disclose himself as Col. Calhoun Peyton of Virginia; saw him point out Capt. Roscoe Fry as the union soldier who saved his life at Gettysburg; heard him claim as his own the sword the captain was auctioning off as the last means of saving his daughter's good name; listened tensely while he paid $500 for the precious blade, and beheld the captain as he in turn paid the money over to his persecutor, Banker Hornbeck.

Then the applause came in volleys, waves, and finally in an unbroken roar, lasting until long after the curtain was through a half dozen ascents and descents, until the lights in the theater were up, until the scene was being struck behind the stage curtain.

Some one had to come out and say something. The audience would not be silent otherwise. Julian Mitchell never makes a speech, and Manager Fred Hamlin was safely hid away in the body of the house. So Edward J. Connelly, still wrapped in his Mysterious Stranger air, came out.

"I have a secret to impart," he said, with a confidential but dignified gesture toward his public. "Of the two authors of this play, one is in Japan. The other is a coward and has run away to Lincoln park." He did not particularize further.

Mr. Connelly deserved to be the spokesman. In him the Mysterious Stranger became authentic to the last movement and the last detail of dress. In the theatrical sense it is the best part the comedian has had since he succeeded Dan Daly in "The Belle of New York." He has taken Mr. McCutcheon's idea and expressed it faithfully and with polished lightness.

The actor, however, did not stand as one alone. Everybody in the cast contributed a distinct portion of the picture.

He had close rivals in Capt. Roscoe Fry, Cyrus Hornbeck, Mrs. Riley Withersby, Mrs. J. Milton Brown, and Riley Peters.

These characters, together with those of J. Milton Brown, Smiley Greene, and Gus Figgey, were taken photographically from the cartoons.

Some were changed in characterization, though not in appearance, in the journey to the stage. Others were not.

Right here, indeed, the audience found its most interesting test. It was able to judge the stage pictures by the pictures already impressed on the mind. The playgoers composing it had seen dramatized plays by the score. There the comparison had been mental. Here it was real.

The test was altogether to the advantage of the play.

When Capt. Roscoe Fry came on in the first act he looked as he always had looked and acted in just the way an old soldier of his appearance would be expected to act.

He was frank, friendly, and talkative; he loved his daughter with an all sacrificing love, and he was not averse to a tilt at love-making with the good looking Mrs. Withersby.

His daughter, Kate Fry, prettily played by Mabel Strickland, was a creation of the dramatist's. She was the pivot around which the plot of the play moved, though she herself was not often at the forefront, except in a scene of dainty sentiment in the last act.

Mrs. Withersby was more kittenish and less dignified behind the footlights than on paper, but she was a pleasant body, much enamored with the captain and anxious to help him in his troubles.

Cyrus Hornbeck evolved from a hard fisted banker into a real villain on his trip to the limelight. It all happened because he also wanted to win the Widow Withersby.

When accident led Kate Fry, as his cashier, to overpay him $500, he was only too glad to accuse her of theft for the sake of ruining her father and driving him from town. But the Mysterious Stranger thwarted him.

Riley Peters was a village frivoler all the time. Charles Wayne, who last was a trooper in "The Tenderfoot," has as yet too rough a hand for the portrait, but he has the bubbling spirits and he will do in a little time.

Gus Figgey was a fat Chicago salesman of the sort that may be met in any day's stroll—or would be if he would leave a dark, suspicious mustache behind in his dressing room. He cut out Riley Peters with the "girls," and at the last he found the wreck of the River Belle.

Smiley Greene and Mrs. Smiley were emphasized comedy copies of the first Mr. and Mrs. Greene. J. Milton Brown was a direct print. Mrs. J. Milton Brown was granted the gift of partial humor and considerable flesh in her new form.

Mr. MacDonough's claim to originality was found to lie in his invention of Sheridan Grant Greene and Florence Nightingale Greene, the former a fat "Buster Brown," with a true Buster wink and a satanic impishness.

Will Archie, a diminutive, rollicking comedian, made Sheridan one of the big hits of the evening. He and the Mysterious Stranger shared the extreme honors.

He made his entrance in the first act in a blanket, having just been rescued from the village mud pond. In the second, where the joys of bohemia were on tap in J. Milton Brown's studio, he smuggled himself in as a part of the refreshments, and brought the entertainment to an unprogrammed end by exploding a barrel of fireworks in the dark room.

One of the two chief comedy scenes of the play was that of the studio. J. Milton was made up as Svengali, and his artistic better half as Trilby. The festive undertaker wore the red Zouave garments of Zuzu. Mrs. Brown was singing "Naughty Cupid" to the magic lantern illustrations of her husband when the explosion came.

The last act furnished its share of fun making, through Capt. Brown's well. He had tapped the brandy cargo of the sunken River Belle, without knowing it. The Mysterious Stranger was the first to learn that this, for once, was water worth drinking. Mrs. Withersby, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Greene make the same discovery unwittingly. The consequent merriment ran high, but did not become unseemly.

Gus Figgey solved the mystery, and the captain found himself rich enough to dare to seek the widow's hand.

As for Banker Hornbeck, he got his $500 bill back, learned it was counterfeit, tried to pass it, and was hauled off to jail himself.

Things Animals Know.

[From the Washington Post.]

"It is a queer thing the way animals learn the meaning of certain words," said Mr. W. T. Reeves of Little Rock.

"I remember as a boy a certain old gray mare that belonged to our family, which one of my older brothers had ridden the whole time of his service in the confederate army. She was a magnificent saddle animal, and ordinarily as gentle as a lamb, but if any one ventured to say, when on her back, 'look out, the Yankees are coming!' she would proceed to bolt at the top of her speed as though terror stricken, and it was a difficult thing to quiet her down. I suppose the words had in some way been borne in upon her equine intelligence during the conflict, and they must have had some frightful meaning.

"Once I addressed them to her, to my sorrow, for, suddenly wheeling, she left the road and plunged into a thick piece of woodland, with the result that a projecting limb knocked me senseless to the ground. After that, when astride the old mare, I studiously avoided all reference to the Yankees."

Stripes Worn by Convicts.

[From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

"Did you ever stop to think about the origin of stripes we use in our prisons?" said a man with an eye for the curious. "If you have not, it will not take you long to figure the thing out if you happen to know anything about the bible. The fact is that we get the ideas from the old dispensation. When I say we, I mean the people of our civilization, of our own day and time, and who live under and are guided by our systems and notions. For instance, in the laws and ordinances of Deuteronomy we find the following, which will give us a clew to the origin of stripes as a badge of infamy: 'If there be a controversy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them, then they shall justify the righteous and condemn the wicked. And it shall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge shall cause him to lie down and be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number. Forty stripes he may give him, and not exceed, lest if he should exceed and beat him above these with many stripes, then thy brother should seem vile unto thee.' Now, instead of inflicting these physical stripes, we put striped clothes on the men who offend the law, or who may 'come unto judgment,' that the judges may judge them,' as it is put in the text. Of course, you should go much further back in history if you cared to trace the origin of marks of infamy, but you would find that physical mutilation of some sort in a majority of instances afforded the means."

Pleasurable.

Baby Llama and Mother in the Park.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

ELEPHANT HAS HARD LOT.

CLOSELY CHAINED FOR YEARS IN LINCOLN PARK ZOO

Duchess Fastened with Cable to Foot, and Has Been Since It Ran Away in 1892—Unable to Reach Peanuts — Only Exercises Two Short Trips in Spring and Fall—Cage to Increase Liberty Planned—Baby Llama Attracts.

To Cy De Vry, head keeper, Lincoln Park zoo: Since 1888 I have been held captive with a leg chain. All the other animals, even the bears and the wolves, roam about inclosures in comparative liberty. I can't reach for a peanut without getting my leg pulled.

All this time I have had no vacation—no outing. Twice a year I am taken for a short stroll—from winter to summer quarters in the spring and back again in the fall. It is all the exercise I get. My supply of peanuts would be scorned by any self-respecting circus elephant. Ald. Scully gave me an invitation to march in the procession in the West Madison street carnival. You declined in my behalf. It was the same when they wanted me to assist on the closing day of the republican national convention. I am denied the society of my species. The Singapore elephants have their ponds, and can pass the time of day with their fellows of the zoo. I am chained in a remote part of the garden.

My disposition is mild. I am fond of children. I am not "gay" with the keepers. Do you think I am getting a square deal. THE DUCHESS.

To the Duchess: You ran away in 1892, and cannot be trusted. CY DE VRY.

All day yesterday the huge pachyderm, still undergoing punishment for running away in 1892—an escapade that cost the life of a horse and $1,500 in broken saloon fixtures and efforts of the entire north side police before it was recaptured, tugged at its chain in its summer house, at the west end of the Lincoln park zoo.

Disconsolately the Duchess moved its head back and forth, back and forth, with melancholy rhythm. In different parts of the garden other species wandered about inclosures of generous size, pausing to gaze curiously at the Sunday visitors.

Unable to Reach Peanuts.

The elephant at intervals tried to become friendly with the crowd that hung over the fences around its house, but the people were too far away. Children threw it peanuts, but most of these fell beyond range of the trunk, and the huge mouth opened in vain to receive them.

"O, the poor elephant," said a little girl who in vain had attempted to reach it with the contents of a sack of peanuts bought for the purpose.

Her father tried, but without much more success. Then he scrambled over the low railing into the inclosure. This time the Duchess was getting her fill of the nuts, until a park policeman appeared.

"Come out of that," he said, waving his club. "You are not allowed in there. You can't feed the animals. It gives 'em indigestion."

The Duchess gave a contemptuous snort and tried to throw dirt on the policeman, but the man with the peanuts had gone.

Elephant Long a Close Prisoner.

And that has been the experience of the elephant since it came to the park sixteen years ago. The Duchess for years never has been permitted to go without the heavy leg chain that has worn a deep crease in its left forefoot. Summer or winter there is no liberty for the huge beast—nothing but a restricted space of a few feet square.

Keeper De Vry admitted it was hard on the elephant, but said there were reasons.

"The Duchess," he said, "is a runaway. It is a good park elephant, but can't be trusted. If it were allowed any liberty it would be all over the north side. An experience in 1892 gave me a lesson. I was taking the Duchess from summer to winter quarters at the end of a fifty foot rope when it got away. It killed a horse, went into a brewery and several saloons, broke a lot of mirrors and glasses, kept the whole north side police force engaged, and cost the park commissioners $1,500. A runaway elephant is just like a runaway horse—it can't be depended upon."

Plan to Build Steel Cage.

It was suggested that a stout inclosure might be made that would allow the beast a reasonable amount of freedom without danger of escape.

"The commissioners have the matter under consideration," answered Mr. De Vry, "and I think that before long the Duchess will have no more cause for complaint."

The kind of inclosure the commissioners have in mind is one like that in Washington, where the elephants are confined behind steel bars two inches in diameter.

Given Liberty in Philadelphia.

There are three elephants in the Philadelphia zoo. Bolivar, a Barnum elephant, is chained by each foot, as his temper is surly, and he seldom is taken out. The others are taken to a pool nearly every day in the summer. The cages are large, and the other animals are not chained at any time.

At the Chutes park in San Francisco are two elephants. They are chained while on exhibition, but taken to a vacant lot every morning and allowed to run loose while the trainer watches.

The elephants in Central park, New York, are chained indoors except in summer, when they are staked outdoors during the day. One exception is made, a half grown elephant being allowed full freedom of the pen.

The crowds at the park tried in vain to get a glimpse of the baby llama, born four days ago, but it was in swaddling clothes. It was such a weakling it was taken from the mother and placed in a sling so that its legs wouldn't touch the floor. The park veterinarian believes it will live.

ALL CAN SMELL TOO WELL

CHICAGO PEOPLE LAUGH AT A THEORY FROM LONDON.

Repudiate Statement That People Are Losing Their Olfactory Sense—Capt. Clancy of Stockyards Police Station Asserts There Are Twenty-seven Distinct Odors at the Yards and That He Can Distinguish Source of Each—Accomplishment Comes with Age.

When Chicago people yesterday read what the London Spectator had to say about the decadence of the olfactory fibers, which in plain English means the loss of smell, they just laughed. They said there was no such luck.

A north side man, kept in practice by three nights of stockyards breezes, argued that Chicago people had cultivated their olfactory organs so that they never could get out of training.

Capt. Clancy Sees No Need.

"Inasmuch," said the Spectator, "as we use spectacles to assist sight, ear trumpets and artificial ear drums to correct deafness, why should not science supply some handy instrument to stimulate the olfactory fibers or magnify the potency of effluvia?"

"Eh?" said Capt. Clancy of the Stockyards police station. "Come again with that. What does it say about olfactory?"

"It says they ought to be stimulated."

"Sure, that must be a queer place where they need that," answered the captain. "The tallow factories don't need any stimulation around here, nor the glue factories, nor the rendering plants."

Knows 27 Stockyards Smells.

"This says people are losing their sense of smell, captain. What do you think about it?"

"Why," and the captain became intensely earnest, "I have lived in this district thirty years and I want to tell you I can distinguish every separate and distinct smell that comes from the stockyards. I counted them one day just for fun and there are exactly twenty-seven of them. There's one kind of smell from the cow pens and another from the sheep pens. There is no more similarity between the smell from the horse and sheep pens that there is between the odor of a rose and a gin fizz. Then there are the smells from the glue factories and the rendering plants and the different slaughtering houses, and don't be forgetting the smell from Bubbly creek, which has a charm of its own. I can tell whether a smell comes from Armour's or Swift's, and just what makes it, and I'm not the only one. 'Tis a stockyards accomplishment that comes with age, like the color to a meerschaum pipe."

TENNES "STILL A GAMBLER," ACCORDING TO HIS FRIENDS.

Former Patrons of Handbooks Receive Tip That "Retirement" Story Was False Alarm and That Bets Are Taken

Mont Tennes has experienced a change of heart, according to his friends, and regrets his hasty surrender to Assistant Chief Schuettler's flying squadron. It has been only a week since Tennes announced he had decided to quit the poolroom business, but yesterday there came a tip to the old patrons of his various handbooks that the story of his retirement was a false alarm, and that bets would be accepted as before.

Schuettler, who received the "retirement" story with the comment that it was "too good to be true," said he had discovered the poolroom at 123 Clark street, raided by detectives on Saturday, was still under Tennes' management.

"I guess it's to be a fight to the finish with Tennes," he said. "I'll accept the challenge."

NEW CEMETERY IS DEDICATED.

Ceremony at St. Joseph's German Catholic Burying Ground Is Witnessed by Two Thousand Persons.

Archbishop Quigley, assisted by priests from thirty Roman Catholic parishes, yesterday dedicated St. Joseph's German Catholic cemetery at Grand avenue and the Desplaines river. A choir of 150 took part in the ceremony, which was witnessed by more than 2,000 persons.

The cemetery covers eighty acres, and when completed will represent an outlay of $250,000. The first piece of ground was purchased eighteen months ago, and the rest bought in five installments. The profits derived from the sale of lots, graves, flowers, and all other sources connected with the cemetery will be given to the Angel Guardian German Catholic asylum for orphans.

The superintendent of the cemetery is the Rev. Julius Wischina, and the business of the cemetery will be conducted by priests from each of the German Roman Catholic parishes of Chicago and two laymen from each church.

INSERTS "AD" FOR CALLERS.

Margaret Green, 76 Years Old, Wishes Sociable Women to "Drop In" for a Chat.

"I really would like some one to come and see me," slad Mrs. Margaret Green on Saturday. "I would fix my room up nicely for them. Then we could have tea together and a chat. I was born in Ireland and have lived in Chicago fifty-four years."

The result was the following "Personal" in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE:

PERSONAL—LADY, 76, LIVED HERE SINCE '52; will kind ladies please call? MARGARET GREEN, 5103 Fifth-av.

Mrs. Green had many callers yesterday. To them she explained that her husband, Thomas Green, a machinist, died last January, and she was lonely. She had been visiting a neighbor in Fifth avenue.

"I have just stepped over," she said, grandly, "at the invitation of my friends. They have asked me to try a bowl of chicken broth. You see, I had no facilities here for cooking."

Marshall Field & Co.

A great many visitors to Chicago make it an especial point to see this store, even if they are in the city but a day or two. They all declare it is among the most interesting "sights" to be seen in the city. Patrons having friends visiting them will find it pleasant for their guests to include a visit to the store as a part of their entertainment. Thousands of out-of-town people are thus shown through this store every month.

In addition to the many beautiful displays in the merchandise sections, which just now are filled with bright new fall goods, it will be found interesting to see the Cold Storage Vault where furs are stored during the summer; the grand view down the Main Court from the 12th floor; the monoliths at the Main Entrance on State Street; the Main Aisle from Washington to Randolph Streets; the Third Floor Annex, with its unique exhibition of pottery and art wares; and the Reading, Writing, and Rest Rooms, with their many pleasant accommodations for visitors. Guides are provided at the Information Bureau, third floor north room, for visitors who wish to make a tour of the store.

NOTE—Beginning next Saturday, September 3d, the store will remain open on Saturdays until 5:30 p. m. as on other days.

SEEK TO DEFEAT TRACTION BILL.

Referendum League Will Ask Aldermen Not to Vote for the Ordinance.

TOO LATE FOR PETITION.

Secretary of Organization Says Question Must Be Referred to the People.

The Referendum league and the executive committee of the Municipal Ownership convention are to appeal to the city council. They declare no referendum on the proposed Chicago City ordinance is possible at this fall election and they will ask the aldermen to refuse to pass the ordinance or any other one when it is presented to them.

Will Ask Help of Labor.

To this end they say they will invoke the assistance of the Federation of Labor and the turner societies, and will appeal to the Municipal Voters' league as well. They claim a large number of the aldermen have pledged themselves to a referendum on the ordinance before it is passed, and they will ask the league to insist on these pledges being kept.

"As the thing stands now," said Maurice J. Doty, secretary of the Referendum league yesterday, "it is absolutely impossible for us to get a petition for a referendum ready in ten days now remaining. We have not the money to attempt it and will not try. It looks to us as if the mayor or the traction companies ought to present the petition. We have shown at two elections what the people want and it is up to the companies and the city officials to prove we are wrong. They should ask for the referendum. We are confident it would show a majority against the ordinance. If it should happen the other way, then they would have a clear case.

Criticises Mayor's Statements.

"The mayor is simply begging the issue in his statement this morning. He claims that because he and Mr. Stewart had 247,000 votes at the last election, while Mr. Cruice and Mr. Bracken had only 20,000, it proves the people do not want immediate municipal ownership.

"The fact is that had he not directly pledged himself in favor of a referendum on any ordinance which might be proposed Mr. Stewart would have been elected. There were thousands of men who voted for Mr. Harrison on the strength of that promise."

GEN. CORBIN TO DIRECT MIMIC WAR IN VIRGINIA.

Arrives at Camp and Leaders of Opposing Divisions Call to Pay Their Respects—Surgeons Study Sanitation.

Headquarters Camp, Gainesville, Va., Aug. 28.—Maj. Gen. H. C. Corbin assumed command of the maneuver camps at Manassas, Thoroughfare, and Gainesville at 1 o'clock today. The Fourth artillery band welcomed him with "Tenting on the Old Camp Grounds." Mrs. Corbin accompanied the general and remained in camp throughout the day, taking the evening train for Washington.

Gen. F. D. Grant, in command of division No. 1 at Manassas, and Gen. J. F. Bell, in command of division No. 2 at Thoroughfare, as well as all brigade commanders from the two camps, paid their respects to Gen. Corbin during the afternoon. Reports from the two division commanders were requested, and will be forthcoming probably tomorrow.

Work of Preparation.

The strength of the two main camps at present is between 2,000 and 2,500 men. During the coming week this force, which will be augmented daily, will be occupied with drills and practice work. The main thing to be accomplished in this time is the laying out of the two camps in skeleton form for the reception of the larger number of regular army troops and state militia to arrive next Saturday and Sunday. The sanitation of the camps is a subject of special study by medical officers.

The signal corps, under command of Capt. Carr, assisted by Capt. Hathaway, has completed its work of connecting each camp and headquarters by telegraph and telephone. Two high power automobiles are to be used during the maneuvers to lay ground wire for field work. Tonight rocket signaling between headquarters camp and the Manassas camp, nine miles away, was carried on successfully.

Excellent Railway Work.

Gen. Corbin occupied the day discussing the various details of the problems to be worked out during the maneuvers with his division and brigade commanders.

Regular troops arrived at both division camps today. The railroad facilities provided by the Southern railway, including switches and storage tracks at both division camps, are pronounced by the division commanders as the best they have ever seen. Col. L. S. Brown, general agent of the road, has taken up quarters at Gainesville and will remain throughout the period of maneuvers to look out for the passenger and traffic features of the camps.

SEATTLE-SITKA CABLE SPLICED

Line Connecting Puget Sound Country and Alaska Is Joined Amid Cheers.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 28.—Amid cheers, the shrieking of whistles, and the playing of the national anthem the final splicing of the Seattle-Sitka government cable was made today in the harbor ten miles out of Seattle. The cable touches at Sitka, Juneau, and Skagway. From the latter point a telegraph line leads over White Pass. From the boundary the government has a line to St. Michaels, and the government wireless connects St. Michaels and Nome.

MOB WOUNDS NEGRO SLAYER.

Georgia Black Who Killed Farmer on Train Rounded Up, House Burned, and Himself Shot.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 28.—A few days ago J. B. Bishop, a farmer of Wilcox county, was murdered on an Atlantic and Birmingham train by a negro, who escaped. The murderer was located tonight near the village of Rebecca. He refused to leave the house. It was burned by the mob and the negro, running out, was shot, though not fatally.

DOG SAVES CHILD FROM DEATH.

Was Thrown Into Reservoir Into Which Philadelphia Boy Had Fallen and Rescued Lad.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—"Old Mountain," a bulldog, saved the life of Ernest Gibson, 8 years old, who had fallen into a reservoir in Seybert street today. The child wriggled from his sister's arms and fell into the tank. A man who could not swim saw the accident, threw his dog into the water, and the beast saved the child.

TOM SHARKEY IN A RUNAWAY.

Horse, Frightened at Spectacled Dog, Bolts and Throws Pugilist Heavily to the Ground.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Frightened by a dog with automobile goggles in an automobile a horse driven by "Tom" Sharkey bolted in the Brooklyn speedway today, throwing Sharkey heavily to the ground. The horse ran for several blocks through the crowded drive before being stopped.

VILAS STIR IN WISCONSIN.

FORMER SENATOR WILL TAKE PART IN CONVENTION.

Chicago Democrats Are Interested in Announcement That He Will Deliver the "Keynote" Speech—Nomination of Peck for Governor Is Expected—Mysterious Organization Sends Out Fiery Circulars Urging All Railway Employes to Vote Against Parker.

Chicago democrats became interested in the Wisconsin democratic state convention which meets at Oshkosh on Wednesday, when it became known that former Senator William Vilas is to take a prominent part in the proceedings. Word came from Madison yesterday that not only had Col. Vilas engaged headquarters for the gathering but it had been arranged he should make a "keynote" speech, and return to his old position in Wisconsin politics.

This was taken by Chicago democrats, at least, to mean that Col. Vilas believes he sees in the present situation in Wisconsin a chance to elect a democratic legislature this year, which, in turn, will choose a successor to Senator Quarles.

That former Gov. George W. Peck will be nominated by the convention for governor is taken for granted, as there is no serious opposition to him. The possibilities in the senatorial situation, however, promise to make the convention interesting.

Mysterious "League" at Work.

A mysterious organization, "The Railway Employés' Independent Political League of America," is calling on railway employés in particular and workingmen generally to vote against Parker and Davis on account of the action of President Cleveland in the Pullman strike of 1894. It does not ask them to vote for Roosevelt and Fairchild, and the republican national committee disowns all knowledge of the "league." The only thing known of it is its name and the fact its address is Lock Box 1,086, Chicago. It is surmised it is working for the socialistic ticket, although no special plea for votes for Debs is made.

Makes a Bitter Attack.

The circular continues:

"Cleveland, the crowned head of our present democracy, initiated a military despotism and established a reign of terror and tyranny, disastrous to working people, and debasing to civilization at large."

PARKER SPENDS QUIET SUNDAY.

Attends Service at Son-in-Law's Church and Dines with Relatives at Kingston.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Former Judge Parker varied his usual Sunday program by dining today in Kingston. With his family he went to the city in his launch and attended service at the Church of the Holy Cross, of which his son-in-law, the Rev. Charles Mercer Hall, is rector. After the service they went to dine at the residence of Alfred Tanner, whose wife is Mrs. Parker's sister, and later returned to Rosemount.

NO ONE KNEW FAIRBANKS.

Worships with a Massachusetts Congregation Without Being Recognized.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks worshiped with a Somerset Methodist congregation today without a person present recognizing him. He arrived here from New York early today and will leave Boston for White River Junction, Vt., tomorrow morning. On arriving in Boston he gave reporters the slip by going to Somerset. There he was recognized by a newspaper man who directed him to the church.

SPENDS SABBATH AT HOME.

President Roosevelt Passed Day with Family at Sagamore Hill After Attending Church Service.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 28.—President Roosevelt passed today quietly at Sagamore Hill with his family and one or two house guests. The president, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and all of the children except Quentin, attended the morning service at Christ Episcopal church. Several relatives and neighborhood friends called informally during the afternoon and evening.

TO DISCUSS ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN.

John P. Hopkins and Roger Sullivan in New York to Meet National Leaders.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—John P. Hopkins of Chicago, with Roger Sullivan, member of the democratic national committee will confer tomorrow with national leaders regarding the democratic campaign in Illinois and the west.

PRIEST BARRICADES HOUSE FOR FEAR OF KIDNAPING.

Trouble in Allegheny Croatian Church Results in Attempt to Make Demonstration Before Bishop.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—The priest of St. Nicholas' Roman Catholic church (Croatian) of Allegheny is barricaded in his house under the belief that an attempt to kidnap him will be made. The situation is the culmination of several months of trouble in the church.

A majority of the congregation, it seems, accuse the priest of mismanagement of the church's finances and demanded his removal. Bishop Phelan refused to accede to the demand and ordered the church closed. No services have been held for eight weeks and today nearly 500 members of the congregation, headed by a brass band, formed in procession, intending to call on the bishop.

The bishop, it is said, received word of the visit and notified the police, with the result that twenty-five officers met the procession at the Pittsburg end of the bridge and turned the marchers back because no permit to parade in Pittsburg had been secured.

The disappointed crowd returned to Allegheny and held an indignation meeting. The priest received word after the meeting through some source that a resolution had been passed to get rid of him by force. Those at the meeting said such a resolution was made, but failed to carry.

MARSH SNARES MURDERER

JOSEPH MANNO, NEWARK, N. J., BURIED ALIVE IN BOG.

Had Run Out Upon Mud to Escape Pursuers After Killing Brother-in-Law and Shooting Woman Over Money—Police and Muskrat Hunters Follow and See Man Disappear in Bottomless Tract—Give Up Search, Believing Fugitive Dead.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—After killing a man and probably fatally wounding a woman, Joseph Manno tonight is believed to have sunk and smothered in a marsh where he sought safety near Newark, N. J.

Manno started his day of tragedy when at 193 Miller street, Newark, he twice shot in the back his brother-in-law, Zulo M. Maarinno, with whom he had quarreled over money matters. As Maarinno turned, falling, a third bullet was sent into his face, resulting in his death an hour later.

Holds Woman and Shoots Her.

Manno then turned on Maarinno's wife, Minnie, and shot her in the back and neck. When she grappled with him he seized her by the throat and held her at arms' length while he sent a third shot into her right shoulder. Then he dropped his revolver, drew a stiletto, and drove eight Italian men and women who had witnessed the shooting from the yard and escaped.

Manno made his way to a stretch of marsh land at the extremity of the city. The marsh was surrounded and when policemen, mounted and on foot, and a professional muskrat hunter, who was familiar with the bog, arrived a search was begun. Surveyors with powerful glasses spotted the murderer in a meadow in the bright moonlight and parties in boats and in rubber boots went after him.

Disappears from Sight of Searchers.

He suddenly disappeared, and at 8 o'clock at night the search was given up, the conclusion being that he got into a mud hole and met death by sinking into the mire.

Several of the searchers sank to their waists and were rescued with difficulty.

Poles ten feet long were shoved in the mud, but bottom was not reached, and in some meadow holes there was from six to ten feet of water.

The murder was due to disagreement in financial matters.

TWO BURDEN BROTHERS, Brighton, Me.

Prevost and a man named Bolgier were fishing, when the former attempted to put on his rubber coat and overturned the boat. Bolgier managed to swim ashore, but Prevost was drowned. While the search was being made for his body another boat was discovered floating bottom up, and soon the bodies of Newell and Weymouth were found. A companion is supposed to have swum ashore.

Two Chicago Boys Drown.

An effort to reach a floating tin can in the Chicago river yesterday resulted in the drowning of Louis Dubeck, 9 year old, 2647 Hillock avenue. The boy was playing near Loomis street, and his efforts to draw the can shoreward with a stick resulted in his falling into the stream, where he sunk at once. The body was recovered.

Joseph Engreifer, 11 years old, of 82 Herndon street, was drowned yesterday in the lake at the foot of Thorndale avenue. The body was not recovered. He and his cousin, Harold Engreifer, aged 15, were swimming and were caught in the undertow. Harold had difficulty in returning to shore.

BRIBERY TO REACT ON THE EMPLOYER

Prince Law Punishes Those Who Submit to Blackmail by Labor Leaders.

IMPROVE LOCAL TRANSIT.

New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad Will Expend Eight Million Dollars.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Aug. 28.

May Indict Bribe Giving Employers.

Now that Philip Weinseimer, president of the Building Trades alliance, has been indicted twice on charges of extortion, there is much curiosity among employers and labor men as to how the Prince law, which goes into effect Thursday, will operate. This law provides that any employer who gives or offers to give to any representative of a labor organization money or any other consideration for declaring a strike or calling a strike off shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The penalty is imprisonment for not more than a year and the maximum fine is $1,000.

Hitherto a walking delegate or representative of a union could be proceeded against under the law covering extortion only, and the district attorney has expressed regret often that there was no law by which an employer who gave a bribe could be indicted.

The Prince law is supposed to make employers amenable for "giving or offering" money for declaring a strike or calling it off, but according to some lawyers it is a question to be decided by the courts whether it will cover the case of a building contractor who has not backbone enough to resist the demand from a labor delegate for money with the alternative that a strike be ordered against him.

Assemblyman Prince, father of the law, who is not a lawyer, takes the stand that the new law will cover a case of employers who give up money under threat of a strike. The law provides punishment for the employer who "gives or offers" money to a labor representative. Hence, according to his reasoning, the employer from whom money is extorted "gives" money anyway and then comes under the law.

New Haven Line to Improve Local Transit.

Eight million dollars or more will be expended by the New York, New Haven, and Hartford railroad company for improved rapid transit from New York City to the Bronx and that part of Westchester lying along Long Island sound, according to information given out tonight by President Charles S. Mellen.

A connection with the Interborough system is proposed among other improvements at West Farms, and it is the plan eventually to give a through service from the battery to New Rochelle and Mount Vernon. The Interborough system is the "L" road.

The money for the improvements is to be raised by an issue of bonds. They have already been underwritten at a premium. Of the six tracks from Harlem to New Rochelle four will be electrically equipped with the third rail system, and two will be left for the use of steam trains.

The plans now only await the formal approval of state and city authorities.

Engineers Want Subway Motormen Paid Union Scale.

Fifteen hundred members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, representing localities within 500 miles of New York, at a meeting here today voted to support the contention of the motor engineers employed on the elevated road, that the men employed in the subway shall be paid the union wage of $3.50 for a nine hour day, instead of $3 for a ten hour day, the rate at which General Manager Bryan of the Interborough Rapid Transit company proposes to pay the subway motormen.

Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of Cleveland and Assistant Grand Chief Edward J. Hurley of Boston will remain here tomorrow and probably Tuesday and try to settle the difficulty with the Interborough.

The men are convinced that the use of electricity instead of steam power on railroads is coming more quickly than is commonly believed, and the greatest part of today's session was devoted to the consideration of this subject.

French Heels Send Woman to Hospital.

French heels have got Mrs. Augustina Herman into more trouble than her shooting of Roger A. Piner in his office in Water street is likely to cause. Mr. Piner today reiterated his assurances to the police that he would not prosecute the young Frenchwoman even if he were dragged into court. As she was climbing the steps to the Oak street police station one of her high heels turned under her and she had to be sent to a hospital with a sprained ankle. She was committed to the prison ward, while the man she is alleged to have shot because she learned he was already married remained in the hospital with a bullet in his neck. Piner was her landlord and was attentive to her. When she learned he got married she shot him.

Frankfurter Boiler Explodes; Three Will Die.

Three persons will die probably as the result of the explosion of a frankfurter boiler in the apartment of Israel Rosensweig in a tenement in Norfolk street today. They are his wife, his 3 year old son Mendel, and his 3 months old baby. The explosion and a small fire that followed created a panic in the tenement. Rosensweig is a frankfurter peddler. He filled the fuel tank of his boiler with kerosene and lighted the wick, it is thought without screwing on the stopper. His wife and children were in the room when the explosion occurred.

George H. Williams Raises Cotton in New Jersey.

George H. Williams has been conducting an interesting experiment at Meadowbrook, his home at West Summit, N. J., which has been a success. He has about fifty cotton plants developed from seed planted in May. These plants bear beautiful blossoms, red, pink, and white, and if the weather continues moderately warm until late in September Mr. Williams will have a small crop of fully matured cotton.

DEATH RATE CONTINUES LOW.

Big Decrease in the Number of Typhoid Cases Is Reported in Weekly Health Bulletin.

According to the weekly bulletin of the health department, even with an increase of 31 deaths reported over the number of the previous week, the total—472—is 114 less than for the corresponding period of last year. The rate for each 1,000 of population is more than 16 per cent lower than the rate of that week.

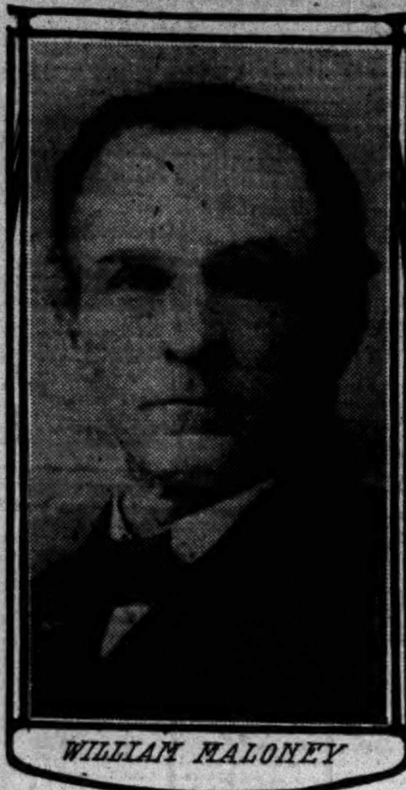

A big decrease in the number of typhoid cases is reported.

Cool weather, pure water, and the improved quality of the milk supply are the principal factors to which credit for the low death rate is ascribed.

Gives His Life to Save a Boy.

WILLIAM MALONEY

William Maloney, a section hand, died at the Englewood Union hospital yesterday morning after telling how his love for his own children had led him on Saturday to save the life of Charles Larsen, 8 years old, at the expense of his own.

"I was working at the Chicago Junction railway crossing at Twenty-third street and the little fellow was playing near me," Maloney told his wife and his three sons and his little daughter when he revived for a minute. "All at once I saw him standing in front of a passenger train and I ran on the track and grabbed him and threw him out of the way. I knew I was taking a chance, but then he was a nice little fellow, just about the size of my boy Joseph here, and I couldn't bear to think of his being killed."

Maloney was struck by a freight train as he jumped from in front of the passenger train. His skull was fractured and both legs were crushed. His family reside at 2370 Thirty-eighth street. The police could not find the address of the rescued boy. He ran away from the scene.

MONTREAL SPLITS OVER RECIPROCITY

Twenty Millions of American Money Invested in Factories Friendly to the Tariff.

outweighs public opinion and has better access to the dominant parties of politics. You may walk the streets of Montreal asking questions of shopkeepers, buyers, mechanics, and idlers and gain the impression that free trade in the continent is the wish and purpose of the people. But an hour's talk with the invested manufacturing chiefs will prove to you that the rich minority is more powerful at Ottawa and more effective at the polls than public sentiment.

And it may edify American readers to know that this overshadowing, preponderant protariff dogmatism in Quebec, and especially in Montreal, is exercised by manufacturers of American origin and of American methods. In the lines described thus briefly it is evident that Canada is not "getting the worst" of the existing tariff regulation between the two countries.

Opposed to Imperialism.

So far as Montreal itself is concerned, there is no British imperial sentiment at work. If there is any sentimentalism active it is wholly religious, and dominantly Roman Catholic and therefore anti-English. I have in my hand the report of a speech made by a liberal "spellbinder," in which the orator told his audience of French habitants that Queen Victoria, with her own hand, murdered Sir John Thompson because he had changed his religion from Anglican Protestantism to Roman Catholicism. And the audience believed its orator. The rural districts of Quebec offer the most illiterate electorate to be found in all of this continent outside of Old Mexico. They are French by extraction, Canadians by necessity, English by tolerance, and Americans in desire.

People Favor Reciprocity.

The province of Quebec, in which Montreal is at the head of tide water navigation, has no winter port. With its shipments it cannot reach the outside world except by a long rail haul to Halifax and a shorter rail haul to Portland, Me. Its winter commerce, therefore, trends logically and unavoidably towards the United States, but the American tariff disbars considerable commerce, and the traffic from Montreal and Quebec through the ports of Maine, Massachusetts, and New York is all in bond, bound for the British ports and the free harbors of the West Indies.

The preponderance of setiment in favor of reciprocity with the United States is an inevitable and evident result of the conditions here set forth with regard to Montreal and this province. But it must be remebered that the manufacturing interest, which is in the ascendancy as to political influence, and which basically is largely American, is in favor of the existing tariffs.

Fresh Bargains Today in the Greatest of All Closing Out Sales.

SOME lines of goods have not moved fast enough, although the store has been thronged for two weeks. So we have gone through the stocks again, crowding down, forcing down, cutting down the prices regardless of previous markings. The result will be apparent throughout all stocks in the house when the store opens this morning for resumption of the sale.

We cannot wait for a protracted clearing. Every day spent in closing out these stocks delays by that much our moving to the new location at State and Madison streets, where we have purchased the business of H. G. Selfridge & Co. We desire to settle and consolidate our business there as soon as we can. That is the reason for the new price cutting that brings so many additional and remarkable bargains into this clearing sale today.

Especially for Women and Children.

Our third floor stocks in particular—the ready-to-wear stocks—have been subjected to re-pricing that merits the name of sensational. And the goods thus marked down again are seasonable goods—which makes the saving opportunities presented to Chicago shoppers all the more noteworthy.

Included in the new pricing are what all women and children need. Note the range of assortments: Women's Coats, Women's Suits, Women's Skirts and Women's Waists; Misses' Coats, Misses' Suits, Misses' Skirts and Misses' Waists; Children's Coats and Children's Dresses; Boys' Clothing, Boys' Hats and Boys' Furnishings.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & Co.

The Chance of Years to Fit Children for School at Little Cost.

The season—near the edge of autumn—just a few days before schools reopen—makes this, in opportuneness alone, the greatest sale Chicago can remember. New school outfits for the children are the chief expense at this time in thousands of homes. Here that expense can be reduced to a degree impossible in other years—impossible now elsewhere.

Not only on the ready-to-wear floor, as mentioned, but in all the miscellaneous stocks, the necessaries of the young people are included in the low pricing. To illustrate: Hosiery, Underwear, etc., on the main floor; Girls' and Boys' shoes on the second floor and in the basement; and so on through the entire store.

Same Story Throughout the House.

What we have said of women's and children's wear does not mean that general bargain opportunities are narrowed in this third week of the sale. On the contrary, as stated in the beginning, prices on every floor have undergone thorough revision. Further cuts have been made. In every stock we are prepared to equal or surpass the values of last week.

Stocks and Where They Are.

Main Floor—Silks, Dress Fabrics, Laces, Gloves, Ribbons, Trimmings, Small Wares, Hosiery, Underwear, Men's Furnishings, Leather Goods, Jewelry, Silverware, Cutlery, Linens, White Goods, Quilts, Books, Stationery, Music.

Second Floor—Women's Furnishings, Corsets, Petticoats, Wrappers, Negligees, Millinery, Shoes, Art Goods, Cut Glass, Art Needlework, Fancy Goods, Pyrography, Black Dress Goods, Flannels, Optical Goods and Kodaks.

Third Floor—Women's Cloaks, Suits, Skirts and Waists; Misses' and Children's Cloaks, Suits and Waists; Boys' Clothing, Hats and Furnishings.

Fourth Floor—Carpets, Domestic and Oriental Rugs, Upholstery, Lace Curtains, Beds, Bedding, Trunks, Suit Cases.

Economy Basement—Our Annex Department consists of Cloaks, Muslin Underwear, Curtains, Upholstery, Linens, Wash Goods, Cottons, Bedding, Small Wares, Silks, Dress Goods, Men's, Women's and Children's Shoes.

Values on Every Floor to Make This Week the Greatest of the Sale.

THE TRIBUNE'S BUSINESS CHANCES ARE A Directory of Investments

LUNDGREN KEEPS PHILLIES AT BAY.

Colts Have Little Trouble in Winning Sunday Game with Easterners.

SOME BRILLIANT PLAYS.

Visitors Participate in Clever Stunts, but in General Are Unsteady.

The Phillies fell back into the rut which marks a tail end team, and gave the Colts an easy victory yesterday in the second game of their series here. The score was 4 to 1 and each one of Chicago's quartet of tallies was a gift of one sort or another. The contest was featured by several brilliant plays, in which the visitors took their share of the honors, but their play was unsteady and not in the same class with that of the Colts.

Lundgren pitched a cinch game, declining to issue a pass, although he did thump Magee on the block pretty hard in the fourth inning, for which injury the youngster was entitled to a walk. For eight innings only three singles were secured off the Illinois alumnus, and these did not come anywhere near making a run. With the score 4 to 0 in the ninth Lundgren permitted three swats in a row, as many as in all the rest of the game, and these prevented a whitewash.

Is "Generously Wild."

Sutthoff, the visiting slabman, was generously wild and was grievously supported, Donahue, who is subbing at short, being the chief offender. Only one of the six passes issued by Sutthoff, however, resulted in a run, the other three tallies being due to errors and good base running.

The Colts led off with a run, of which Lush's muff of a good throw to first and singles by Barry and McCarthy were the ingredients. In the third Slagle begged a free ticket of Sutthoff and scored on Casey's rainbow hit to left, which Titus overplayed and let roll almost to the fence. Barry sacrificed and McCarthy scored Casey with a single to center.

The Colt's last run came in the sixth and was the fruit of Gleason's misdeed. Evers rolled one to the "Kid," who fumbled, then threw wildly to first, letting Johnny get to second. Evers then drew a throw to second by leading far off the base and sneaked to third in safety on it, scoring on Lundgren's good fly to Titus.

McCarthy's Running Catch.

The nearest bid the visitors made for a run in eight innings was in the fourth. There, with one out, Evers fumbled Wolverton's hit, and Lundgren hit Magee in the head with a stray bender. Lush followed with a corking fly through right center, but McCarthy made a great running capture of it and shut off at least two runs thereby. Titus was disposed of and there was no further danger. In the ninth, with one visitor dead, Gleason doubled to left and scored on hits by Magee and Lush, after Wolverton had flied out. Score:

Notes of the Colts' Game.

Philadelphia today for the last time this year.

Owing to Roy Thomas' prejudice against Sunday baseball, Manager Duffy filled in at center.

Lundgren has been signed for next season at an increased salary. Manager Selee made the deal with his pitcher on Saturday.

Donahue tried to cover too much ground. Once he butted in on a fly which belonged to Duffy and missed it. Again he stole a fly away from Titus and had to make a sensational catch to get it.

There was nothing in the game which equaled McCarthy's porch climbing act in the fourth, but Magee made a brilliant shoestring catch in the eighth and Evers blocked a hit from Magee in the ninth and would have kept Gleason from scoring at all if Lush had not made another safety right after it.

Manager Selee is in doubt whether to play a postponed game with Pittsburg on Sept. 19 on the way east or to play an exhibition game he has arranged in Syracuse for that date. He will probably decide on Syracuse, as the jumps to play in Pittsburg will be bad for both teams. Schulte of the Syracuse team will join the Colts on the 19th.

Defeat St. Louis Cardinals in Two Contests Before Big Crowd—Scores Are 6 to 0 and 8 to 3.

St. Louis, Aug. 28.—New York easily won both games from St. Louis today. McGinnity, who pitched in the first game for the visitors, shut out the home team. The crowd was the largest in St. Louis this season, the turnstiles showing 21,900. Scores:

INDIAN PLAYERS SHUT OUT BY KENOSHA BASEBALL MEN.

Creeks Lose, 10 to 0, in Game from Which "The Tribune" Ice Fund Will Receive Financial Benefit.

The Eufala Creek Indians were shut out yesterday afternoon by the Kenosha baseball team, which made ten points in a game at the American league park. A substantial amount will be added to the sum already on hand for distributing ice among the poor, as a percentage of the gate receipts is to be contributed to THE TRIBUNE ice fund.

Daye's pitching was a feature of the game. He struck out five of the first seven men at bat. It was predicted he would equal his record of last week at Birmingham, Ala., when he struck out twenty-three men, but he failed in the eight inning, letting in four men on a low drive by Donohue. With one more run in the eighth inning the Kenosha team was assured of victory.

The nearest the Indians came to scoring was in the third inning, when McIntosh reached third, but Schmidt struck out the last man.

Union Giants, 2; Athletics, 1.

A big crowd saw the Union Giants defeat the Athletics at Auburn Park in the first game the latter have lost since July 4. Both teams did some clever fielding, a one handed catch by Wyatt saving the game for the colored boys. Talbert, Toney, Ball, and Herman Long, who was playing his first game with the Athletics, also performed well. The Athletics made three hits in the ninth inning, but a man was caught between the bases, preventing a tie score. Score:

SOX FACE FIGHT FOR THIRD PLACE

Arrive in Philadelphia to Begin a Series with the Athletics.

TEAMS ARE NOW TIED.

Thus Far Western Men Have Won but One Game in Seven in Quaker Town.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—It wasn't a peaceable bunch of ball players that Manager Jones brought here from Boston today. The White Sox feel their defeats at the hands of New York and Boston keenly and are in no humor to be trifled with. Six defeats out of eight games is about as poor a showing as they have made this season.

Connie Mack's Athletics are tied with the Chicagoans now for third and fourth places, but if the grim determination of the western bunch is indicative of successful fighting humor the Athletics will be the unquestioned holders of fourth place after tomorrow's battle.

Not all of the Chicago team came straight through here from Boston. Ed Walsh stopped off at Meridian, Conn., his home, over Sunday, while George Davis left the team at New York City, where he spent the day. Both will come on tomorrow morning, however.

The team was late arriving, coming on a slow train from New York. As most of them had a poor night's rest owing to the crowded condition of the Fall River steamer, on which they rode to New York, there was a general rush for more sleep as soon as rooms were assigned in the hotel here.

"Doc" White will probably open the series here tomorrow, though Altrock is a possibility also. It is Henley's turn to work for the Athletics, but Waddell is the probable selection of Manager Mack. Only three games are to be played here. Eight have already been played, of which the Athletics have won seven.

GOLF ENTRIES ARE SLOW.

NAMES FOR NATIONAL TOURNAMENT MUST BE SENT BY TODAY.

Only Forty Received by Saturday, but Most of Them Are Expected to Come In on the Closing Day—Travis and Douglas Both in the List—Two Arrive from the Far West—New Rules to Govern the Contest, Eighteen-Hole Qualifying Round.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Entries close tomorrow evening for the amateur golf championship to be played next week at the Baltusrol Golf club, but the list probably will be held up until Wednesday to await letters mailed from distant points today.

Old as the rule is that competitors shall enter through the secretaries of their respective clubs, half a dozen have sent in their own entries and their personal check for the $5 fee. Notices have been sent to these golfers to have their entry indorsed by the home club secretary, else they cannot play.

The new conditions this year call for an eighteen hole qualifying round the first day and for thirty-six holes medal play between the best sixty-four players on the second day. The thirty-two survivors of the second day will then begin match play rounds of eighteen holes, except the final round, which will be thirty-six holes.

Pairings for the first match play round will be made in a public draw by the U. S. G. A. executive committee. Only forty entries had come in up to last Saturday, but they always come with a rush on the last day. There were 145 entries last year.

W. J. Travis and Findlay S. Douglas have both entered. No word has been received from E. M. Byers or from any of the British cracks. It would not be necessary for the foreigners to send advance entries, as they would play on the invitation of the U. S. G. A. John Lawson, the English member of the San Francisco Golf club, who was runner up to Walter Fairbanks in the Pacific coast championship in 1902, is an entry, and another entry from the Pacific coast is that of S. C. Newton of the Seattle Golf Country club. He was at Baltusrol today and made a good impression. T. M. Sherman, winner of the Deal tournament, won the first cup at the Lake Placid Golf club tournament Saturday, beating C. E. Machold of Philadelphia in a thirty-six hole final by 12 up and 11 to play. He is regarded as a doubtful entry at Baltusrol, for the individual championship of the Central New York Golf league will be held the same week at Auburn, and as Sherman was runner up last year it is said he will prefer to try again at home rather than seek national honors this year.

A great many letters are being sent to Golf Illustrated regarding the charge that but little hospitality was shown W. J. Travis at Sandwich. Travis has made no complaints, and the official statement has been made that he had to decline a dinner proffered to him by many of the leading players on account of having to return at once to this country.

SCHAEFER TO RETURN TO PARIS.

Will Sail with Billy Catton on Saturday—"Wizard" Is Owner of Race Horses.

Billiardists Jacob Schaefer and Billy Catton leave Chicago tomorrow night and will sail from New York on Saturday for Paris, where Schaefer will try to match Catton against Sutton at both cushion caroms and balk line. It is not generally known that Schaefer owns racehorses, but he does, and one of his objects in returning to Paris is to dispose of his bangtails. He will then return to the states and devote his time to billiard business.

Yacht Races at Pewaukee.

Pewaukee, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The result of the Phelps cup races sailed this afternoon was as follows:

One design cats—B, owned by Starke, time 55:01; J. Zefelt, 55:33; K, Wollaeger, 55:19; L, Hoffman, 1:01:00; F, Rom, 58:18; H, Steinman, 59:50; E, Kieckhefer, 55:45.

Third class—X, Wallber, 55:50; Y, Votteler, 1:02:45.

Neleh Wins Yacht Race.

The first of a series of yacht races for the Farragut club pennant were sailed yesterday afternoon, Neleh winning, with Soubrette second; Spray, third; Lobster Dory, fourth; and Harriet, fifth.

Randall Knocks Out Ruhlin.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—Eddie Randall of St. Louis knocked out Harry Ruhlin of Philadelphia in the fifth round of what was to have been a twenty round contest before the North Side Athletic club today.

PROVIDENCE RACES THIS WEEK

Grand Circuit Horses Reach Narragansett Park—Cherry Lass Meets with an Accident.

[BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.]

Providence, R. I., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The grand circuit races at Narragansett park that begin tomorrow and continue six days have attracted horses from all parts of the land, the entry list being the best of the season.

Four events have been carded for each day and with the exception of a few early closing affairs they promise to be well contested, as in each the number of starters will be large and the horses well matched. Morning Star, the crack green pacer of the year, will probably have an easy win in the $2,000 race for 2:20 pacers, as the best of the lot against him are Angus Pointer and Gordon Prince, both of which he beat handily at Boston. The Illinois horse Stein is booked to start and as he is known to have phenomenal speed there are some who give him a chance to win.

There are to be six starters in the 2:06 pace, Frank Yoakum and Nathan Straus being the most fancied, although Cascade will have a following. There are fourteen entries in the 2:13 trot, with no one of the lot outclassing the others, so that a long race is looked for. During the afternoon Dariel will start against her own pacing record of 2:00¾, but is not expected to beat it.

The pacing mare Cherry Lass, a constant winner in the grand circuit from Detroit to Providence, and regarded as certain to take down first money in her race here, broke one of the small bones of a hind leg while rolling in her stall this morning. Cherry Lass, starting the season without a record, has already made one of 2:06¾, and was looked upon by reason of the ease with which she has defeated every horse that has started against her as likely to pace around 2:03 any time she was forced to do so. Whether she will ever be able to stand training again is doubtful.

Woman Driver for Prince Alert.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—A feature of the races at the New York state fair on Sept. 8 will be Miss Nina Phelps' endeavor to lower the world's record for women drivers held by herself. She will drive Prince Alert in the attempt. Miss Phelps is the daughter of a West Troy, N. Y., banker, and two years ago drove Dariel in 2:12.

Noted Stallion Is Destroyed.

Sacramento, Cal., Aug. 28.—Darebin, one of the leading stallions at J. B. Haggin's Rancho del Paso stud, is dead. The great horse was destroyed to put him out of misery. Darebin had reached the age of 27 years. He was imported from Australia by Mr. Haggin. The price paid for him, it is said, was $30,000.

Notes of the Racetrack.

The monthly meeting of the stewards of the Western Jockey club is scheduled for tonight. It is said a proposition to raise the scale of weights may be considered.

Daughters of Hamburg have won the Futurity two years in succession. Hamburg Belle, the winner in 1903, is by Hamburg—Isiac, and Artful, the winner on Saturday, is by Hamburg—Martha II.

And again John W. Gates and John A. Drake are credited with enormous losings. Their losses on Sysonby on Saturday were estimated at $100,000. Eastern bookmakers say Gates and Drake are likely to finish the season $500,000 to the bad at the pace they are going.

RESPESS STABLE DUE THIS WEEK.

Dick Welles, Six Shooter, and Others Likely to Be Seen at Harlem.

JUNIOR HANDICAP TODAY.

Two Year Old Race Feature of Program—Golf Steeplechase Weights.

The unexpected advent of Respess' stable, including such cracks as Dick Welles, Six Shooter, Bernays, and others; the return of Gold Enamel, Cigarlighter, Jack Lory, and other good 2 year olds from Saratoga; six stakes in the program book, the track in fine condition, and the prospect of fine weather, all combine to encourage the belief that the Harlem Jockey club's second summer meeting will afford two of the best weeks of racing of the local season.

"Can you give me twenty-four stalls? Would like to ship Tuesday," was the message received yesterday by Secretary Nathanson of the Harlem Jockey club from "Rome" Respess at St. Louis. An affirmative answer was sent, and the horses in the Respess string are expected at Harlem on Wednesday.

It is significant that Respess is moving here from St. Louis just on the eve of three good stakes, the Speed, Twentieth Century, and Tecumseh, in all of which he has his best horses engaged. Last year he won the Speed stakes with Dick Welles and the Twentieth Century with Six Shooter. Both are entered again, and the Speed stakes will be run next Saturday, and the $8,000 Twentieth Century next Monday.

So far this year Respess' stable has been an enigma. Dick Welles, holder of the American records for a mile and six furlongs, has not started, and nothing is known about his present form. Six Shooter, winner of the mile and a half Great Western handicap at Washington park and the rich Twentieth Century handicap at Harlem park, has won one race this season, and that was a purse worth $300 to the winner; however, he gave the St. Louis track a new mile record, which was showing some form. Bernays, third in last year's American Derby, and a colt of which Respess expected so much, has done little racing worth mentioning this year, and horsemen have wondered and wondered when Respess' cracks were going to earn something more than the feed bills. Perhaps they are at last ready, at any rate the advent of such horses increases interest in the Harlem racing.

A nice card ushers in the meeting at Harlem park today, the $3,500 Junior handicap for 2 year olds at six furlongs being the feature. Eight are named to start, and perhaps one or two more will be added. Flaxman is eligible at 118 pounds. Some of the best western colts that went to Saratoga would have returned for this stake if cars could have been secured. M. D. Miller sent word last week to Secretary Nathanson that Gold Enamel and Cigarlighter would return for the Junior handicap, but yesterday he wired he had been unable to ship because every available car had been pressed into service to move all the horses at Saratoga back to New York.

Weights are announced by Secretary Nathanson for the Golf steeplechase, to be run on Wednesday, as follows:

COL. HAMILTON COMPLIMENTED.

New York Paper Praises the Harlem Racetrack Official in Criticising Eastern Judges.

Col. A. W. Hamilton has arrived from Mount Sterling, Ky., to resume his duties as presiding judge, and his friends have been congratulating him on a recent compliment from the east. The New York World, in a review of the Saratoga meeting just closed, compares eastern and western racing to the advantage of the latter, and cites Col. Hamilton as the kind of men needed in the stand, concluding with:

"The Saratoga meeting has been full of inconsistencies in the racing, and so far as is known the stewards have made no sign that they have asked a question. If they have asked questions, is it wise to permit the public to go on and nurse the suspicion that racing at Saratoga is crooked? If a horserace is inconsistent would it not be wise to give the public some explanation of the reversal, and not permit them to get the idea that the race is crooked?

"How different everything is in the west. They would not stand for one day what easterners put up with for a whole season. Take, for instance, Col. Hamilton, who acts as judge and steward at Los Angeles and Harlem. From all accounts Col. Hamilton is an ideal man for the place. Col. Hamilton is a judge of form, and when he goes to the racetrack he has through an exhaustive study figured pretty closely how the horses should run. In addition he has a record of each horse as to their consistency in past performances.

"If a horse does not run to the form which Col. Hamilton thinks he should have shown, the boys are quietly called beneath the stand and questioned. If a horse shows glaring inconsistencies then the owner is questioned. Col. Hamilton finds in a majority of cases that there were legitimate excuses. In some he finds that there has been sharp practice and he acts accordingly.

"Now, if eastern people had men of the caliber of Col. Hamilton overseeing races there would be a greater confidence in the sport. There would be that assurance that wise horsemen could not play tricks and get away with them. And such men would serve to keep horsemen up to the chalk line. It is most discouraging to see reversal after reversal passed by without a question being asked by the stewards."

FUTURITY AFTERMATH GOSSIP.

Artful Has Not Yet Demonstrated She Is the Best Two Year Old—Her Future Engagements.

New York, Aug. 28.—Artful's Futurity triumph was on the tip of the tongue all day today. It was freely admitted that her true form had been skillfully covered up, in spite of the fact that she ran in two races at Saratoga. It is perfectly legitimate to run a horse second to a stable mate with whom the owner has explicitly declared to win, and Artful was pulled to both Prince Rupert and Dreamer, who in each instance beat her a couple of lengths.

Artful was enabled to gain much actual racing experience and at the same time get into the Futurity with a maiden allowance that gave her a decided pull in the weight. Eliminating her from the Futurity and the real weight carriers, Tradition, Sysonby, and Tanya, were pretty close together, showing merit and running not far away from public form. Many of those who wagered big money on Sysonby were inclined to criticise the handling of Artful.

Artful's work for the Futurity was not kept a secret, but the fact that she ran a far better race than was expected has naturally caused grumbling which is unwarranted. Great as was her performance in the big race, however, she has yet to prove she is the best 2 year old of the year. She must display marked ability, pack weight, and take the measure of such cracks as Tradition and Sysonby, who finished behind her.

In the Great Eastern, which is a handicap for 2 year olds at six furlongs, and will be run a week from Saturday, Artful will probably be asked to meet Sysonby, Tradition, and other good youngsters under more trying conditions. It is believed she will receive a heavy impost from the handicapper, who will place her practically on even terms with the Keene star and Paget's filly at least. If she declines the issue Tanya may be sent out to fight for the prize.

Somebody said after the Futurity that Sysonby displayed the white feather—an assertion that caused much warmth of feeling among the adherents of the Keene stable. To all appearances Sysonby ran his best race, but simply met defeat because he encountered a better 2 year old than had been his lot in previous races. There is an inclination now to rate Sysonby on a lower plane than before the Futurity was run. Looking back over his races it is asserted that in reality he beat nothing, and, being a remarkably high class colt, it was easy for him to show his quality in a more pronounced manner than under other circumstances.

Artful's next engagement is the Great Filly stakes to be run on Wednesday, followed by the Sapphire, Belles, and Great Eastern handicap to be decided later on at the bay, but she is not eligible for the Flatbush stakes scheduled for next Saturday. In the Great Filly stakes, if she goes, Artful will have to take up a penalty of eight pounds.

OLYMPIAN GAMES TO BEGIN TODAY

Athletes from Foreign Countries and Stars of America to Compete.

NEW YORK TEAM STRONG.

East Expected to Win Honors Because of Unity, While West Is Split.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The third revival of the Olympian games opens tomorrow with contests in six events. Athletes from foreign countries and the stars of the east and west come into competition at the stadium here as in the National A. A. U. championships. It seems the New York Athletic club will again be the winner of team honors.

The west is represented by some remarkable athletes, individuals whose performances surpass those of their eastern rivals, but the west is divided. The great contest which will resolve into an all American struggle, despite the foreigners, must result in favor of the east, because there the athletes are united and practically all are running for the N. Y. A. C.

Western Men on Three Teams.

Western aspirants for track honors are found on teams from Chicago, Milwaukee, and Missouri athletic clubs. Clubs from Kentucky and California have entered several men under such conditions that the coveted honor should go to the lads from the eastern metropolis if they perform up to their records. Nothing short of remarkable performances by members of the C. A. A., the strongest western team, can prevent it.

The sixty meter dash, the first event of the day, will be easy for the west with Hahn, Hogenson, Abodie of California, and Cartwell in the running. The first four will probably finish in the order name, although some expect Hogenson to finish in front. Moulton or Houter may beat Cartwell out of the place.

The four meter run should go to the east with Hillman, N. Y. A. C., and Morrow of Montreal. Each have scored a victory, but this time Morrow should win. The Milwaukee entries, Poage and Waller, should come in for the two remaining places. Groman may exceed calculations, but he can hardly be expected to win.

The 2,500 meter steeplechase, the only other track event of the first day meet, lies between Letevou, Alex. Grant, and Munson of N. Y. A. C. Lightbody and Verne will follow with third and fourth.

In every one of the three field events to be contested, the running high jump, standing broad jump, and hammer throw, New York should come off victorious. If Jones of the eastern club is in form, to him will go the running high jump, with Schule and Fisher of Milwaukee in second and third places.

Ewry Liked for Broad Jump.

In the standing broad Ray Eway looks an easy winner, while Schule, Jones, and Fisher will probably annex the remaining points. The hammer throw looks all Flanagan, with Rose and De Witt struggling for second honors. If "Sandy" Thomas contests he should get the place.

The Chicago Athletic association team, accompanied by Francis Butler, chairman Brown of the athletic committee, and Fred Stone, arrived last night from Chicago. Butler thinks his team has a chance to win the championship, and said: "If Rose, Hogenson, Lightbody, and Devorak surpass themselves, together with other points that may come our way, New York will have no easy time. We seem sure of second place."

AUTOMOBILE RACES AT THE FAIR.

CLAIRVOYANTS.

AN HONEST PROPOSITION — PROF. JAMES White, Chicago's celebrated clairvoyant, palmist, and spirit medium, is permanently located here. His honesty, test of time, and 11 years of continuous practice in Chicago have proved beyond all doubt that Prof. James White is the leader of his profession. As proof of his WONDERFUL POWER, to all who come prepared for readings this week he will tell your FULL NAME, ADDRESS, OCCUPATION, AND THE OBJECT OF YOUR VISIT ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE. His advice pertaining to love, law, business, wills, estates, lawsuits, buying or selling property, speculation, investments, marriage, divorce, etc., is unequaled. He reunites the separated, causes speedy and happy marriage with one you love, restores lost affection, removes evil influence—in fact, everything. Prof. White's advice is much sought for on past or future investments, for which he has no equal. He charges not one penny for such advice until the investment has paid a handsome profit. Is this not fair and honest? Great reduction this week. Prof. White, as a matter of advertisement, this week will give his complete life reading for 50 cents; satisfaction absolutely guaranteed or no fee accepted. Everything strictly sacred and confidential. His residence is arranged so you meet no strangers. Don't mistake name and number. PROF. JAMES WHITE, TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY-THREE WARREN-AV., bet. Robey and Hoyne-av., West Side. Consultation hours, 10 to 6, Sundays included. Letters with stamp answered.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

ANNUAL CLEARANCE OF SLIGHTLY USED PIANOS.
Opportunity to buy a Steinway, Weber, Knabe, or other well known piano at very small cost.
Following our annual custom, we announce a special sale of slightly used pianos. Here and there in our stock are pianos that are not quite of the latest model, or have had some slight use, or have been taken in exchange. All these Steinways, Webers, Knabes, and other instruments have been placed one side and marked for immediate sale. We wish to avoid carrying even one of them over into next season's stock.
Piano seekers would do well to examine these pianos before purchasing an instrument at ordinary valuations. We enumerate a few only.
Steinway small upright, ebonized case, good as new; Steinway Baby Grand, shows hardly any trace of use; Steinway medium size upright, mahogany case, rented short time; Steinway, same as above, in ebony case; Steinway cabinet grand upright, ebony case, in excellent condition; Steinway small upright, in fine playing order; Weber upright, medium size, walnut; Weber cabinet grand, walnut case; Weber baby grand, mahogany case, latest pattern; Knabe cabinet grand, mahogany case, used for concert purposes only; Knabe parlor grand, very dainty.
Also very attractive bargains in a carload of latest model uprights from a good maker, bought recently at an extra discount. They are of intrinsically good musical value and will be closed out at $185.
A special lot of new uprights, all woods, greatest value in Chicago, at $145.
Also a room full of new and second hand uprights, your choice at $195, either cash or long time payments. Many of these pianos have been held at $300. Several leading makes are included. A number of very fine pianos from a musical standpoint will be found in the collection. The extreme dullness of the past summer makes it peremptory upon us to reduce this stock at once.
Visitors are always cordially welcome to our salesrooms. From 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. groups of piano customers will always be found upon our piano floors, but we have such ample facilities and such a large corps of salesmen that we can sell twenty different instruments simultaneously without the least delay.
EASY PAYMENTS—Pianos may be secured by small first payment. On low priced pianos we are prepared to accept a cash payment of $10, and monthly payments thereafter of $5. No advance in price when easy terms are desired. Pianos of all descriptions included in this offer.
Buyers at a distance should write for special bargain list and also our schedule of freight rates on pianos.
We ship pianos everywhere.
EXCHANGE CERTIFICATES—With every inexpensive piano we include free a certificate which gives the owner the privilege of exchanging said instrument as part pay toward any new piano of higher cost in our stock.
A HANDSOME PIANO BOOK, ILLUSTRATED, FREE.
New pianos to rent, $4 per month.
LYON & HEALY, Wabash-av. and Adams-st.
The business of Lyon & Healy largely exceeds in volume and value that of any other musical establishment in either Europe or America.

GROWTH OF PHILIPPINE TRADE.

Bureau of Insular Affairs Cites Increase of $1,000,000 in Nine Months Ending Last March.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—During the nine months ended March last, the commerce of the Philippine islands shows an increase of more than $1,000,000, according to a statement given out today at the bureau of insular affairs. The statement says that the Philippine import trade advanced nearly $2,000,000 in value.

The imports for the nine months ended March, 1904, are $25,927,024, and the exports are $22,256,169, a 7 per cent increase in imports and a 2 per cent decrease in exports.

The statement says that for the first time since the American occupation the United States leads in the amount of merchandise sent to the islands, and that the outgoing trade with the principal countries shows a decline in the value of shipments to the United States. The figures on the carrying trade show an increase in volume of business done under the American flag, the amount carried to the islands being $1,535,027, while $2,227,805 of the exports left the islands under the American flag.

Americans made up more than one-half the arrivals, the larger portion being classed as professional men. One-fifth of the whole number of immigrants, it is stated, neither could read nor write, 95 per cent of the illiterates being Chinese.

Now for the Law.

The black hand and the red hand have had their innings long enough. Let the iron hand now take the bat.—New York Mail.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD.

PRESENT CONDITIONS FAVORABLE TO RENEWED ACTIVITY.

Bull Position in the Stock Exchange Grows Stronger—Features of the Situation—Unsettled Conditions Rule in the Market for Steel Products—Good Demand for Dry Goods—Moderate Activity in Coal Trade, but Steam Fuel Grows Weaker.

Each week's developments appear to strengthen the position of those who believe in higher prices for securities. The corn crop is almost made, and experts, meaning thereby persons whose knowledge of crop conditions are thorough, estimate that this year's yield will be between a big and a bumper crop.

With a yield such as now seems assured there will be laid the basis for another year of good business, and consequently an era of better prices. Inevitably a bumper crop will mean increased tonnage, larger employment of labor, a general distribution of wealth, and the restoration of confidence in the business outlook.

As to the railroads, there is already evidence of their needs in the matter of rails and cars. Seeing the general dullness in the steel situation, they have held off buying rails in the belief that natural conditions would eventually operate to make lower prices. But the so-called rail pool has been able to hold at least openly its prices.

Rail Buying Begins.

The Canadian Pacific is one of the first lines to advertise its needs by placing an order for 65,000 tons of rails. American lines which admittedly were holding expenses to the minimum prior to the making up of their annual statements, must sooner or later do what has been left undone and place their orders for rails and rolling stock. The prospectively large corn crop only emphasizes the necessity for such purchases.

It has been the experience at the banks that for months large manufacturers and business people generally have refrained from enlarging their activities or making new ventures. They have taken this attitude, not because funds were lacking but because they feared the present would be a dull business year and in consequence have either placed their surplus earnings with the banks or invested them in good securities. These people who have been unwilling to expand their business are preparing to do so whenever the time seems propitious. Their collections have been good and their profits are well in hand. To increase the volume of their business will not mean heavy borrowings, since they have idle funds at their disposal.

In the case of the purchaser of securities conditions seem unusually favorable for speculative ventures. Dismissing the crop as an assured factor, there remains the one possibility of disappointment in the coming national election. West of New York no doubt appears to be entertained among business people that President Roosevelt will succeed himself.

Wall Street's Peculiar Complacency.

But viewing the speculative outlook from the possibility of the unexpected happening, the Wall street phase is particularly interesting. If there is any community in the country which professes it would be little disturbed by the election of the democratic candidate it is Wall street.

To observers of business conditions not influenced by the animosities created through the Northern Securities litigation, there is not much doubt what would happen to general business should the democratic party be successful. But in the event of such success the optimism of Wall street would be to the advantage of the purchaser of securities who had based the value of his investment largely upon the expectation of a different result of the contest. Should Wall street continue in its present temper and after the election regard with indifference what others might consider disaster it would furnish a good market for some little time at least on which securities might be unloaded.

Market and Money.

The immediate course of prices may be influenced by the turn in the money market, though the bank statement Saturday was disregarded. It indicated finally the beginning of the outward movement of funds. The stock market, however, advanced to the close.

It may be pointed out again that the banks are in an unusually good position this year. The excess reserve is $57,375,400, against $20,627,925 last year and $9,742,775 the corresponding week in 1902. Deposits are about $300,000,000 greater than one year ago, while loans are only $176,000,000 greater. In the meantime, the capital and surplus has increased $10,000,000. The money, too, is in the banks and not in the stock market, and its movement, therefore, should have less effect than usual on the price of securities.

Bank Statement.

The technical position of the stock market continues good in that few stocks are for sale. It is the experience of local commission houses that customers will not sell, though they are ready to buy on a moderate scale. The sentiment of the west, therefore, appears to be in favor of higher prices.

Steel Market Unsettled.

The feature of the week in the jobbing markets has been the falling off in the demand for steel and iron, due to general talk of unstable prices and various cuts being made by the warring interests in the trade. The cut in wire and nails is expected to be followed by reductions in other finished products, though so far no further concessions have been made.

The Iron and Machinery World says: "Just as soon as the buyers regain confidence that present prices will hold there will be a renewal of buying. The action of the new producers at Buffalo appears to have been measurably conservative, and if there is a continuation of that conservative policy the occasion for a change in quotations is materially lessened. In almost every branch of the trade, even in those that have not been directly concerned in the reports, there has been a temporary lull, though one which is already beginning to pass away.

"It is reported, though without confirmation, that some heavy buying of steel rails has occurred within the last week or ten days, the outside limit of these reports being close to 100,000 tons. And there are good prospects for orders in almost all branches of the trade. Large implement makers have been inquiring this week for steel material for the season into which they are now entering. Little is heard openly about car business, but one southern line has increased the order 1,000 cars. And there has developed some activity in car wheels. The heavy buying of structural material for the South Side elevated road, noted last week, will perhaps not be duplicated for a long time, but there are inquiries for several thousand tons of material to be used in Chicago structures, which may become orders in the near future. It is the large business which for the moment seems to offer the greater encouragement for activity. There are so changes in prices. It is notable that the reduction in the price of wire and nails has already stirred up considerable business in those branches."

Coal Trade Moderately Active.

In the bituminous coal trade there has been a slight change for the better during the week in the kinds used for domestic purposes, but steam coals, particularly screenings and the fine grades, are ruling decidedly weak. At some of the mines there are large accumulations which are not being moved owing to embargoes on rail lines and lack of shipping orders.

In the Chicago and western anthracite trade western shipping agents report that the demand for coal is quiet, but has shown more activity within the last week and will probably be fairly strong up to the 1st of September, when there may be a lull of a week or two. Dealers realize that business must be done on a closer margin this winter than it was last, owing to the general business condition of the country. They are accordingly taking advantage of any discount which will be to their financial advantage, and as a result larger orders have been received before the full circular basis is effective than was expected. For the month of August it is probable the tonnage represented in the business from Chicago to the country will show a slight gain over July. In the larger cities, however, demand is light at present, and when this business commences it will come with a rush. Prices are being well maintained in the shipping trade in western territory, and few cases of cutting are heard of. Individual coal is fairly well held and generally sells on the circular basis in movement to the trade.

Good Trade in Dry Goods.

There was increased activity in the dry goods markets, due to the presence of a large number of buyers, who took hold with a degree of enthusiasm which was encouraging to the belief entertained by the majority of dealers that this fall will witness a good general trade in various lines of dry goods.

"The feature during the week," says the Dry Goods Reporter, "has been the strength of raw cotton. It is not this week a matter of reporting 'the tendency,' for there has been a marked advance, resulting in a net gain of 55 points over a week ago. The last quotation in the Reporter was 10.65; this week it is 11.20. With spot cotton above 11 cents and the large cotton crop, estimated at 12,000,000 bales, begining to be marketed the probability of 'breaks' in cotton fabrics is more remote, if, indeed, not altogether unlikely. The next few weeks will be a season of close watchfulness on the part of all. While the aggregate of business at present is good, the demand is for present needs only. The uncertainties of cotton prices during the next few days are so great as to cause hesitation."

LONDON, Aug. 28.—In this city one day last week an unfortunate stock broker who was called upon to pay a small debt pleaded inability to do so on the ground that business was so stagnant on the stock exchange he was able to make no money at all. This is an individual case, but it reflects the general condition last week, perhaps the dullest of the year, although money was easy toward the end of the week and there was a more cheerful disposition following Balfour's explanations of the Anglo-Russian situation. Business continued stagnant and the markets remained remarkably steady despite journalistic appeals for what would have been tantamount to a declaration of war upon Russia.

Further advances took place in American railroad shares, although there is an impression here that Wall street is largely in the hands of professional dealers.

Reports of a discovery of a reef ten miles long in Rhodesia has raised the hopes of the South African mining market. On Thursday there was a great deal of excitement and chartered shares only went up a sixteenth, but some Rhodesian descriptions advanced smartly.

There can be no question about the strength of the position now held by the Bank of England, the reserve during the week having been raised upwards of $5,000,000, the total now standing at over $132,500,000. Discount rates are steady.

PAUSE IN WHEAT UPTURN.

SETBACK ON HEAVY REALIZING, BUT LOSSES NOT SEVERE.

Half the Big Advance of the Previous Week Still Retained, with Thrashing Reports and Crop Estimates Still Conflicting, but Those of the Most Bullish Character Having Most Effect—Bulls Confident and Inclined to Bet Their Profits on the Markets.

The excited bull market in wheat culminated, for a time at least, Monday morning in a momentary spurt which carried prices to a slightly higher level than had been reached the previous week. This advance was met, however, by heavy realizing, possibly also by renewed bearish effort on the part of the few undismayed shorts and certainly by liberal hedging sales by cash houses against purchases of wheat in the southwest and also of Oregon and Washington wheat, which was finding its best market in the east, in spite of the long haul across the Rockies and the high freight rate of about 35c a bu. Under selling of this sort the market began to yield.

While crop news from the northwest of the calamitous order kept coming, the buying power of the market seemed exhausted. The weight of offerings pressed the price lower and lower until the decline forced general liquidation by weak holders and strong as well. The market was staggered and the break was not checked until it had carried the price down nearly 11c for the May. At that it lost considerably less than the gain of the previous week.

The May delivery, which now carries the bulk of the speculative trade, sold at $1.17 on the Monday bulge, and down to $1.06¾ on Thursday. At this point the decline was checked and the liquidation seemed largely over. Local and northwestern bulls, who had been fortunate enough to get out well, came to the support of the market again under the encouragement of poor thrashing returns from Minnesota and the Dakotas and more and more pessimistic reports of the condition of the crop in Manitoba.

Bulls Have Confidence.

Having large profits to their credit and confidence in the situation, the bulls were able to bring about sharp rallies, but there was more inclination, apparently, to take profits on these spurts than on the previous advance, and the result was a lively scalping market, with quick turns in both directions. The May closed at $1.09⅝, a loss of 5⅝c for the week.

The Northwestern Miller encouraged the decline by its estimate of the yield of 170,000,000 bu for the three northwestern states, based on replies from 500 millers. This authority, representing the interests of the millers, was vigorous in its denunciation of the "crop killers," but the inclination of the speculative trade seemed to be to pin a good deal of faith to the discoveries of those gentlemen.

While early in the week, with the liquidation on in full force, bad crop news was a drug in the market, it began to have considerable weight again before the end of the week. Reports of yields of three to ten bushels of lightweight wheat in large sections of the Red river valley, claims that in many places wheat would not pay for thrashing, and that in a large part of North Dakota the wheat was still green, were among the influences which excited the market. Estimates of the yield in the three states ranged from the one quoted above down to the decidedly small figure of 100,000,000 bu of millable wheat. Fear of frost was at one time a factor, but this danger to the crop seemed averted, for the weather turned warm and clear.

The Manitoba yield was estimated by various authorities, millers and crop experts, as low as 35,000,000 bu, Jones giving that figure as the probable yield, or a maximum of 42,000,000 bu, in case there should be no frost within a few days. The Ontario crop was estimated by the government at 9,800,000 bu, the smallest in years, compared with 7,200,000 bu last year.

Rust Damage Serious.

There has undoubtedly been grave damage by rust both in the northwest and in Manitoba, but the crop is so spotted in both sections that it will need the thrashing returns to develop the extent of the losses. It is evident a small total only will be available for export and if the most alarming views of the crop experts and speculators be accepted this country really has none at all for export and has hardly raised enough for bread and seed. However, so far, the alarm over the situation seems confined largely to the speculative trade in this country.

The flour trade does not accept the speculative view of the situation and demand is slow and backward. Foreign markets only follow the advances on this side at a respectful distance, precluding the possibility of export sales. So far, for two months of the crop year, exports for wheat and flour together are only 11,000,000 bu, a large part from Canada, and practically the only sales of wheat are occasional loads of Manitobas at prices much lower than those ruling in this country.

The liberal movement of wheat in the southwest, which has continued with little falling off in spite of the warnings that country shipments were falling off and receipts must soon diminish, has probably contributed to the real or apparent indifference of the flour trade and of the foreigner. Receipts at Kansas City and St. Louis were for the week 2,710,200 bu, compared with 3,324,900 bu the previous week and 1,616,000 bu a year ago. There are already signs of a falling off in the movement to this market, and with the spring wheat harvest late the movement to northwestern markets has hardly begun, though not much under last year's figures. Primary receipts for the week were considerably larger than a year ago, 5,272,000 bu, compared with 4,355,000 bu.

In Other Markets.

Corn prices were well maintained for about half the week in spite of the weakness in wheat and of general rains over all sections of the corn belt which had been contributing complaints of drought. There still remained the bullish possibility of an early frost, and temperatures were low enough to suggest such a contingency, but no frost came. The weather began to moderate, and corn longs generally anticipated this improvement in conditions by heavy and general liquidation. On the early advance and the rain there was heavy selling of cash corn by the country and hedging sales against these purchases threw a load on the market which was more than the bulls cared to carry. There was a break of about 4c from top prices in the May to one of 2c in the September. Strength in Liverpool gave some encouragement early, as did some export demand from that market, but Argentine shipments of over 4,000,000 bu for the week indicated foreigners might not need much American corn for the present. A good deal of the crop is late and would undoubtedly be injured more or less by early frosts.

There has been little in oats but a disposition to follow the fluctuations in corn, and on the corn break there was liquidation which carried prices down about 2c. There has been a little falling off in receipts, apparently a proof of the countryman's intention to store and hold rather than sell at current prices, but the shipping demand has continued extremely slow and the market has had to take a weight of hedging sales by elevator interests against purchases made in the country.

Liquidation in provisions by January holders who had bought on the corn strength contributed to a general decline. There was also a good deal of changing of September contracts over to the more distant months. The week closed with prices for pork off 52½@70c, lard 7½@15c, and ribs 20@32½c, the heaviest declines in the January product.

URGES THE "SIMPLE LIFE"

DR. POUND IN SERMON DECLARES LUXURY IS ENERVATING.

"Let a Man Be a Man, Without Palaver or Artificiality," Preacher Says at the Rogers Park Congregational Church—Multiplicity of Demands and Desires Saps Life, and Every One Should Be a Toiler—"Small Business" Is Envying the Wealthy.

"The Simple Life in the Modern World" was advocated yesterday by the Rev. William Hathaway Pound in his sermon at the Rogers Park Congregational church.

"The simple life is not an impracticable theory nor an idle dream," he said. "It does not mean the exaltation of poverty, nor leisure, nor spiritless labor, nor a return to the way of our fathers. It means the working out of life's highest possibilities. Moral culture is the end of true civilization. A multiplicity of demands and desires, many of them artificial, saps the life of men in the modern world before they reach the years that should be of the greatest power.

Every Man Should Toil.

"Every man should be a contributor to the toil of the world as long as possible. The simple life is marked by veracity and ingenuousness. It is not puffed up, finds merit in others, and speaks plainly its honest thought. Its enemies are covetousness and envy. It is small business wasting time in envying a man who may pay taxes on $40,000,000. The hope of society lies in the man who is doing well and happily his appointed task.

"Artificial habits of speech and forms of living do not minister to simplicity. We love a mountain for its grandeur, a flower for its fragrance, and a starlit sky for its beauty. 'Let a man be a man' without palaver or artificiality. I would rather belong to God's millions than to man's '400.' I would rather wear dirt stained trousers in the performance of honest labor than white satin breeches at an ultra fashionable function. Lives are wasted in senseless endeavor to bring many things to pass when it is enough to bring one thing to pass.

Luxury Means Enervation.

"A luxury loving age is an enervating age, producing physical and moral flabbiness. We are told that actual life is not a Sunday school, but when actual life squares itself with Sunday school teaching the world will be full of brightest promise. It is not so true that 'a man must live' as it is that a man must live right or perish. Men become gourmands; they worship fashion and become walking dummies; they become devotees of artificial amusements and lose the power of simple enjoyment."

TELLS MEANING OF "LIGHT."

Lyncher or the Striker Who Uses Violence Is in Darkness, Says the Rev. W. H. Herd.

At St. James' Methodist Episcopal church the Rev. W. H. Herd preached on "We Shall See Light in His Light." He said in part:

"We see the truth through the glasses of our own experience. The dishonest man can believe none honest; the impure recognizes no purity incarnate; the hypocrit hopes to divert attention from himself by calling 'Stop, thief.' These men see not light, but darkness. 'In thy light shall we see light.'

"The member of the mob who thinks he sees light in the ephemeral public sentiment and rushes on to burn the negro and torture him with such pains as would make the black's savage ancestors in darkest Africa turn pale to contemplate; the man who under 'union' fever thinks to break heads and destroy the life of his fellow man who wants to take the position which he has voluntarily surrendered—these men see light not in his light, but in that abnormal public sentiment. Order is heaven's first law, violence antagonistic to it. No two wrongs ever can make a right. Add as many as you may, they still produce a negative quantity. Jesus Christ is the true light of the world."

CZAR'S BABY REAL CONQUEROR.

Birth of Russian Heir Means More Liberties for the People, Says Dr. Barton.

"God's Profit Is Men" was the topic of the Rev. William E. Barton at the First Congregational church, Oak Park. He said in part:

"Who has wrought the greatest deeds of late in Russia or Japan? No Japanese admiral, although he sink the Russian fleet twice over; no Russian general, although he drive back the Japs from Port Arthur and hold Manchuria for the czar. The greatest conqueror lies in the cradle.

"The birth of an infant son to the long expectant and oft disappointed household of the Russian monarch has given to that nation a new birth. It has nerved the arm of every Russian soldier and put heart into the councilors of state. But this is a small thing. It has given to the exiles of Siberia rights long withheld. It has brought new hope to Finland. It has enlarged the liberties of the common people. It has opened the doors for reforms such as a revolution with bloodshed and conflagration could not have accomplished."

SEES PURPOSE IN VACATIONS.

Take Lessons to Daily Work, Declares the Rev. Frances Townsley in Sermon.

"Finished Vacations" was the subject chosen by the Rev. Frances Townsley at the First Baptist church at Austin.

"Bring the sea and the mountains and the green fields home with you," he said. "Take them with you in your heart to work. God sends you to the high places and the quiet spots to have visions of him. While I would have many of you overcome your reticence and take the church and its teaching home with you, too, yet always remember we all must know more than we tell; the lesson of self-suppression is just as necessary for some of us as that of expression is for others.

"Christ descended from his mount of transformation—to heal a lunatic. We must remember our church is not a club. It is not a place of amusement or culture, but an institution to heal the sinful—the lunatics. The priest is only a prayist, 'one who brings others to Christ.'"

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

Miss Daisy and Miss Nannie Leiter are the guests this week of their brother, Joseph Leiter, at his residence, 101 Rush street. They arrived on Friday in a private car on the Baltimore and Ohio railway from Bar Harbor, Me., where they have been spending the summer. They will return to Washington next week. This is their first visit to Chicago since their departure two years ago for a tour through Europe and British India, where they were the guests of their sister, Lady Curzon.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Elting are planning to sail for America on Sept. 7. On their arrival they will spend a week in New York before coming to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Seymour Winston, who were present at their wedding, which took place on Aug. 1 at Geneva, Switzerland, will sail for home on Sept. 2, and likewise will spend a short time in New York before returning to Chicago.

Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, 108 Lake Shore drive, who has spent the latter part of the summer at her summer home in Dublin, N. H., will return home in the middle of September.

Mrs. Edward J. Martyn, who has spent the summer at Winnetka, has taken a house at 506 East Division street for the winter and will likely move into town in the latter part of September, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Edward L. Trudeau Jr.

Mrs. George W. Ryerson, 103 Lincoln Park boulevard, has gone to Small Point, Me. Mrs. W. R. Odell, who is likewise spending the summer there, will give a house party there this week for Mrs. Bruce Clark and Miss Florence Gray, who are the guests of Mrs. Henry Dibblee at Rye Beach. Mrs. John C. King will leave for Rye Beach on Friday to visit her mother, Mrs. Dibblee.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Cobb Coleman, who have spent the month at the Mount Washington, Bretton Woods, N. H., will remain there until the 1st of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Badger of Riverside, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Grace, to Mr. Frederic Charles Hoppe, formerly of St. Louis, now a resident of Chicago.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ethel Sterling Cornell, daughter of Mrs. A. Sterling Cornell, 217 Park avenue, to Mr. Frank Edwin Lewis. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

Mrs. Stillman E. Jamieson gave a luncheon and handkerchief shower at the Union League club Saturday in honor of Miss Sadie Forrest, who is to be a September bride. There were fourteen guests.

Mrs. C. W. Elphicke, 1316 Davis street, Evanston, has issued invitations for a luncheon to take place Thursday in honor of Miss Rody Dwight, whose marriage to Mr. Lawrence Colin Ward will be celebrated on Sept. 6.

Mrs. Philip Francis Little of River Forest has as her guest Miss Jean Meredith Sleep, who recently returned to Chicago after several years spent abroad.

Mrs. Philip Dyrenforth and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Dyrenforth, will leave the first week in September for New York, whence they sail for Europe to spend the winter in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz and their son have returned home after six weeks spent in the northern woods of Wisconsin.

Mrs. S. M. Dunning and daughter, Helen, of Hyde Park, have gone to Galena, Ill., to be the guests of Mrs. George Simpson Baume.

Mrs. J. H. McCulloch, 2275 Kenmore avenue, left last week for a trip to New York, Boston, and the White mountains. She will not return until the last of September.

Mrs. Charlotte Dalberg and Miss Dalberg of Milwaukee are the guests of Mrs. Richard Newlander, 1810 Wellington avenue.

Mr. Charles Dillard Kennedy and Mrs. Effie McKee Seaver yesterday noon were married at 6505 Woodlawn avenue. After a trip on the great lakes they will reside at that address.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Felsenthal, 3745 Langley avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter Rose to Harry E. De Vide.

DISCOVERY BY POWER PLANTS.

California Concerns Impose Two Electric Currents on Same Wire Without Explosion.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—A discovery of the greatest importance to electric power plants was made last night, when two heavy currents of electricity were imposed on the same wire without an explosion. Heretofore it has been held impossible to synchronize electric currents on the same wire. The power was sent from the plant of the Bay Counties company at Colfax to the Standard Electric company at Mokelumne hill, a distance of 550 miles. This city is supplied with power by the standard company, but yesterday there was a break in the service and the Bay Counties power was turned on. During the evening the Standard plant was placed in operation again and thus it was that the two currents met somewhere on the long line of wire.

DECLARES FAITH IN THE BIBLE.

"I Believe from Cover to Cover," Declares Dr. Leach at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church.

"I believe the bible from cover to cover," declared Dr. Leach at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church. "Some will say: 'What, Leach, are you that old fogyish?' I answer yes. I must believe it. If I reject one chapter I invalidate the whole. I am not speaking of little slips of pen, but of histories, of God's dealings with men.

"I believe in Mosaic accounts of creation. I reject not one narrative or miracle in all God's word.

"If we preachers believed with a greater intensity we could save the world rapidly. This constant, dilly dallying way of touching great truths is a damnation to men."

NEW TEMPLE IS DEDICATED.

Dr. A. Baurer Officiates at the Ceremony for the Jewish Congregation Tiphereth Zion.

A new temple, erected at 586 North Lincoln street, was dedicated yesterday by the Jewish Congregation Tiphereth Zion.

The services were conducted by Dr. A. Baurer. Rabbi Simon S. Album and Attorney Israel Cowen also spoke. A choir of eighteen sang.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies a banquet was served in the basement of the new temple.

Trimmed Millinery: Many Hats at Reduced Prices.

MANY trimmed hats have been reduced for this week's showing of millinery—a consequence of the Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. reorganization here. Exclusive models from Paris, London and New York, as well as the less expensive but very desirable domestic adaptations, are offered in pleasing assortments. Third Floor.

The picturesque effects that distinguished fashions of the time of Louis XVI are faithfully reproduced in detail and their quaint charm will undoubtedly make them favorite among the varied styles offered this season. Bold color schemes are a noticeable feature in the trimming. Coq de rouche, new browns and reds are successfully employed. Moderate pricings rule. Range is $7.50, $12.50, $17.50 and $25.

A variety of silk taffeta hats in pleasing designs is offered at very moderate prices. These neat, serviceable hats are greatly in demand, as they are unusually well suited for street hats. Another point in their favor is the low prices at which they are offered. Blue, brown and navy hats at $3.75, $4.50, $5 $6 and $7.50.
